WHAT IS SAPOLIO?

It is a solid handsome cake of scouring soap which has no equal for all cleaning purposes except in the laundry. To use it is to value it...

What will SAPOLIO do? Why it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes and off the pots and pans. You can scour the knives and forks with it, and make the tin things shine brightly. The wash-basin, the bath-tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be as clean as a new pin if you use SAPOLIO. One cake will prove all we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it.

GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON

House Republicans Lack but Four of a Quorum.

CALKINS IS HARRISON'S FRIEND

Charles Emery Smith of Philadelphia Selected Minister to Russia.

SENATE PASSES DIRECT TAX BILL

The Confederates of the Senate Severely Rebuked for Their Recent Defense of Crime and Eulogy of Davis.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—[OREGONIAN Office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—The republican caucus last night had the effect of bringing all the republicans able to attend into the house this morning. On the first party vote there were 162 republicans voting. This is still four short of a quorum should the democrats refuse to vote. An effort will be made to get the four absentees in before the contested election cases are decided.

Senators Allen and Squire of Washington, do not know who will be appointed United States district judge in Washington. No two men watch with more interest the nominations sent by the president from day to day than the Washington senators. When they call upon the president they are courteously received, but when the judgeship is mentioned there is a coldness manifested by the executive that chills the marrow in their bones. Both senators were requested by the attorney-general two weeks ago to make their recommendations, and were at the same time given a quiet intimation that the president would be pleased to have them recommend Judge Calkins. As Senator Allen had promised to recommend Mr. Hanford, and Senator Squire, being a Seattle man, felt in duty bound to join him, they told the president that they did not know Judge Calkins and could not recommend him, but they have assured the executive that in case he should see fit to appoint a man other than that recommended by them they would not feel disposed to enter a protest after it was settled. "We have done all we can in the matter," Senator Squire said today. "We don't know who will be appointed, and expect an appointment to come in at almost any time."

Representative Wilson says that he believes Calkins will be appointed, basing his statement on the remark the president made that he "intended to appoint the judge himself." An estimate of the amount expended in telegraphing between Washington state and Washington city over the judgeship places it at $2000, and the wires are kept hot every day.

Charles Emery Smith, of the Philadelphia Press, has been offered the Russian mission and is considering the advisability of accepting the place. It seems to have been the object of the president to get a man for that mission from Pennsylvania, who will be satisfactory to Wanamaker and the Pennsylvania senators.

The senate committee on privileges and elections to-day took up the Montana senatorial election contest, but did nothing more than to set it down for hearing Saturday, February 15. Messrs. Clark and McGinnis, democratic senators-elect, were present to hear the determination of the committee.

IN THE SENATE.

Direct Tax Refunding Bill Passed—Brigadiers Again Stirred Up.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the senate a memorial was presented by Chandler for the establishment of a republican form of government in the state Mississippi.

Morrill introduced a bill authorizing the issue of treasury notes on the deposit of silver bullion, and had it referred to the committee on finance. He said that the committee had addressed a communication to the secretary of the treasury, asking him to formulate a bill in accordance with his recommendation in relation to silver, and that the bill had been received. Without committing himself or any member of the committee to it, he asked to have it printed and referred.

A resolution was offered by McMillan, and adopted, instructing the library committee to inquire and report as to the propriety of purchasing the Stanley collection of Indian historical paintings now in custody of the Smithsonian institute.

On motion of Sherman the senate bill to relieve the treasurer of the United States from the amount now charged to him, and deposited with the several states, was taken from the calendar and passed.

On motion of Morrill the bill to credit and pay the several states and territories and the District of Columbia all moneys collected under the direct tax of 1861 was taken from the calendar. After considerable debate Vance offered an amendment to the proposition, to refund the cotton tax; rejected. The bill was then passed—Yeas 44, nays 7. The nays were: Berry, Blair, Call, Coke, Plumb, Vance and Vest.

The bill makes it the duty of the secretary of the treasury to credit each state, territory and the District of Columbia with a sum equal to all the collections made from said states and territories under the act of August 5, 1861, and amendatory acts thereto. It appropriates the necessary sum.

Hoar's resolution calling upon the secretary of war for information as to the seizure and imprisonment of Apache prisoners; agreed to.

The senate resumed consideration of Chandler's resolution, discussed yesterday. Senator George made an argument against it, holding that the senate had no jurisdiction to pass a law to punish the persons who committed the Aberdeen outrage, and asking, if such were the case, what right the senate had to make an inquiry into the matter. He condemned the hanging in effigy of Secretary Proctor.

Spooner said he was glad the day had come when the United States had an attorney general who would take notice of an outrage on an American citizen. The hanging in effigy of Secretary Proctor not only brought out the feeling of bitterness that existed in the South, and which had no counterpart in the North, but also brought into the sunlight the recklessness, cruelty, brutality, indifference to law and to decency, which the country for many years had had occasion to complain of. Referring to the accidental dropping by Faunce of the rope which held the Proctor effigy, Spooner spoke of Faunce being led down the streets of Aberdeen surrounded by 200 or 300 people, with a man laying a lash on him at every step. Appeal to the mayor of the city had been in vain.

"Think of it," exclaimed Spooner, in passionate tones; "alone, far from his home, lashed and scourged in the market place in the presence of 300 chivalrous gentlemen, and not one stepped forward to arrest that brutal arm." Spooner expressed regret that George had felt called upon in his remarks to pronounce a eulogy on Jefferson Davis. He had hoped no one would deem it necessary to do this in the senate chamber of the United States. It would strike a harsh chord on the breasts of millions of men throughout the North. The people do not believe, as George said, that Jefferson Davis either under the constitution or the Confederacy, never betrayed a trust. They believe, on the contrary, that Davis sat in the senate chamber betraying daily the highest trust ever reposed in man, but it was not for that that they execrated his memory. It was because they held him responsible for the atrocious, unspeakable, devilish cruelties visited upon Union prisoners. In closing, Spooner said the resolution, if it accomplished nothing else, would subserve one good purpose—it would show that there was a community (Aberdeen) where love of Jefferson Davis's memory is stronger than respect for the law.

Gray said the hanging of a high official in effigy, while it was to be condemned, was not an unprecedented outrage. Quite recently President Harrison had been hung in effigy in the state of Indiana. He moved to amend the resolution by adding the words: "and also the letter of instruction to the marshal, to which the report was a response;" and also the following: "and that he be requested to inform the senate whether, in the alleged assault on Faunce, any rights under the constitution or laws of the United States were violated."

Butler offered an amendment, instructing the attorney general to furnish all the papers in the office of the district attorney of Indiana, or in the United States court there, relating to the Dudley case.

After further debate the first part of Gray's amendment was agreed to, and the second part was not voted on.

Call offered an amendment calling on the attorney general to report on the hanging in effigy of President Harrison in Indiana and President Cleveland in Kansas. Without action on the pending amendments, the resolution went over.

The bill to aid the state of Colorado to support a school of mines was passed. After an executive session the senate adjourned.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Richard Guenther, Wisconsin, consul general at the City of Mexico; Lewis Gottschalk, California, consul at Stuttgart.

IN THE HOUSE.

Basis for National Bank Circulation—National Buffalo Park.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The house to-day passed the bill providing that in cases of pension claims of dependent parents it shall be necessary only to show the pension office that the parents are without other means of support than manual labor.

Dorsey reported from the committee on currency a bill to provide for the issue of circulating notes of National banks. It provides in substance that upon the deposit of United States bonds, any bank shall be entitled to receive circulating notes not exceeding in amount the par value of the bonds deposited; provided that at no time the amount of such notes shall exceed the amount actually paid in of the bank's capital stock. Bland, Anderson of Kansas, Lane of Illinois, and McRae of Arkansas, opposed the bill, and Pendleton of West Virginia, favored it. Its opponents argued that it was not in the interest of the people, but of the bankers, and also antagonistic to the free coinage of silver.

Canon gave notice of a proposed substitute for the bill, which is in substance that national banks shall not be required to keep on deposit United States bonds in excess of $1000 as security for circulating notes, but shall keep on deposit an amount of bonds as herein required, and such of those banks having deposited bonds in excess of this amount are authorized to reduce their circulation by the deposit of lawful money as provided by law; provided, that the amount of such circulation shall not exceed in any case 90 per cent. of the bonds deposited as herein provided. The bill then went over.

Peters introduced a bill, which was referred, setting apart certain lands in No Man's Land for the propagation of buffaloes. Adjourned.

Senator Bruce on the Race Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Senator Bruce called upon the president to-day, and incidentally mentioned the race question in the South. Bruce told the president that he thought the salvation of the South and the negroes would be secured by education. The president expressed warm interest in the race question, which he said had given him more trouble than anything else since he became president. He hoped the trouble would be peaceably settled.

NO FREE TRADE FOR FRANCE.

Her Conditions, Like Those of America, Differ From Great Britain.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Ribot, republican deputy from Pas de Calais, spoke before the customs tariff committee to-day on the projected renewal of commercial treaties. He said the question before them was whether France should, when the commercial treaties expired in 1892, resume complete freedom from tariffs, or should conclude new treaties in 1891. A majority of the deputies had already pronounced in favor of a renewal of the treaties at that time. The points at which this subject touched most forcibly the mind of the people were as it regarded the convenience of frequent changes in the tariff, and the danger of exposing the French export trade to rigorous measures of intended retaliation on the part of other countries. France should know she is bound to the commercial policy of protection. She is not in the same position as Great Britain and Belgium which have a superabundance of industrial production. All the conditions of her political, social and economical order make it imperative that wide and efficient protection should be accorded to French manufactures and agriculture.

In the chamber of deputies to-day a committee on customs tariff was elected. It is composed of thirty-nine protectionists, thirteen free traders and three whose views are uncertain.

THE NEW EXTRADITION TREATY.

Entirely Satisfactory to Canada—Its Ratification Almost Sure.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Sir John Thompson, minister of justice, was seen to-day in reference to the new extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States. The members of the government, including himself, thought it a satisfactory solution of a long-vexed problem, and one that would probably be accepted and indorsed by the senate, in sympathy, as it was, with the republican administration. The treaty as drawn up by Secretary Blaine and Sir Julian Pauncefote, did not differ materially from that negotiated by Secretary Bayard, except that the clauses relating to what were called political offenses were eliminated. The treaty, however, added a large number of crimes to those included in the treaty of 1862.

So far as the Dominion government was concerned, no difficulty was anticipated in accepting the treaty. They were satisfied with it, though it did not go as far as they would have liked it to go on one or two points, and would be willing to acquiesce in its adoption.

DEARER BEEF AND PORK.

The Stock Raising Industry Not Keeping Pace With Increase of Population.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—"We believe in higher beef and pork, and are trimming our sails that way," said George H. Webster of Armour & Co., to-day. "Pork and beef have risen during the last two weeks, and will go still higher. We expected higher prices during the last year than those which prevailed, but various causes operated to keep off the advance. It has now come to stay. Beef and pork will be higher in 1891 than in 1890. Why? Well, there is a constantly increasing consumption without a corresponding increase in range production."

"Are exports increasing?"

"No. Exports of beef and pork in 1889 were about the same as the preceding year. It is home consumption that is increasing. The population is growing fast, and the increase is greater in cities and trade centers than in the farming districts, where some consumers are also producers of beef and pork."

"It is stated that thousands of cattle are dying on the Northwestern ranches because of deep snow."

"I do not believe it. We have no such advices."

WHY DO THEY LEAVE CANADA?

Enormous Emigration to the United States Attracts Attention of Parliament.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—John Charlton, member of parliament for Norfolk, has given notice that on Thursday he will move that a select committee of parliament be appointed to inquire as to the extent of what he calls the "alarming" exodus of natural-born Canadians and settlers in Canada of foreign birth to the United States, as to the chief causes of such exodus and as to the best means to be adopted to counteract the influences which have hitherto stimulated the exodus, and to suggest a means for diminishing this drain on Canada's numerical strength.

CABLE NOTES.

Gladstone Rallying His Forces.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Gladstone's usual circular to his supporters in the house of commons just before the opening session of parliament was published to-day. He says the condition of public affairs is not without some peculiar features, and that the questions to be considered at the opening session may be of pressing interest. The wording of the circular is unusual, and is taken to indicate an early discussion of the Pigott letters and other matters of vital importance to liberal and home rule members.

SAILOR BOARDING HOUSE WAR

Two Knotty Problems as to Federal Jurisdiction—Umatilla County Pioneer Dead—Court Martial at Vancouver.

SEATTLE, Jan. 28.—[Special Telegram.]—The bold desperado who robbed the faro bank in the Elite gambling house of $200 at the pistol's point yesterday morning, afterwards shooting Dick Rickards, an attache of the game and then shooting at a deputy sheriff who attempted to arrest him, was captured by the police in a lodging house on Grant street bridge at 7 o'clock this morning. After escaping from the officer at the race track last evening, the desperado returned to the city. He stopped at Fisher's lodging house, on the Grant street bridge, and asked for a room. This was given him and he went up stairs. His actions were so suspicious and his appearance was so similar to that of the desperado as described that the police were notified. They immediately surrounded the house and guarded his room all night. At 7 o'clock this morning he was ordered to come out and surrender. He attempted to jump from a window, but was driven back by officers who guarded it.

Finally the officers broke into the room and arrested him as he was holding a revolver to his side as if to kill himself. After arrest he said his name was David Dence, that he was a Frenchman, 20 years of age, and that he recently came to Seattle from Montana. He explained the robbery by saying he had lost all his money gambling, and wanted to borrow enough to buy clothes so he could make a respectable appearance and earn money to pay it back. He was taken to the county jail.

The grand jury is now in session and will probably bring in several indictments against him tomorrow. Richard Rickards, the wounded man, is resting easily to-night, and the doctors hope that he may recover; however, the chances are not much in his favor.

THE SAILORS' BOARDING-HOUSES.

Two Important Cases Involving Federal Jurisdiction Pending at Astoria.

ASTORIA, Jan. 28.—[Special Telegram.]—The case of John Tobin, the sailor, who contracted to ship on the Orpheus and then refused to go aboard, came up before Judge Taylor this morning on a writ of habeas corpus. Tobin was charged by Captain Young of the Orpheus with desertion. The case is an important one, as it involves the question as to whether a British seaman can be convicted of desertion in an American port. The United States statute of 1791 provides for punishment of sailors generally who desert from vessels in American ports; but this is construed to apply only to American sailors, as the United States cannot force a man to leave the country without a treaty with the foreign power taking charge of him. Following this the statutes of 1829 provide that where a treaty is made which allows punishment of foreign seamen for desertion, complaint must be made by a consul or vice-consul. In this case the complaint was made by the captain of the vessel, but had it even been made by the vice-consul, it would not have affected the case, as there is no treaty with England touching the subject. Judge Taylor took the matter under advisement until to-morrow morning and fixed Tobin's bonds at $5000, but it is a foregone conclusion that Tobin will be released.

To-night Deputy United States Marshals Roberts and Wade, of Portland, arrested Dick McCarron, Joe Baker and three other men for harboring Tobin.

The case against United States Deputy Marshal Fitzsimmons, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon upon Dick McCarron during the fight Sunday on board the steamer Thompson over English sailors shipped at Portland, will come up to-morrow in the police court. A question of jurisdiction will probably be raised, Fitzsimmons claiming that he was acting under authority of the United States district attorney. The prosecution will maintain that the marshal has no authority to imprison sailors and put them on board a ship. These cases are simply the outgrowth of the fight between the sailor boarding-house men of Portland and Astoria.

The Columbia, the Collier Willamette and the British ship Orpheus are barbound here, but expect to get out to-morrow.

NEWS FROM PENDLETON.

A Girl Assaulted by Legree—Death of a Pioneer.

PENDLETON, Jan. 28.—[Special Telegram.]—Miss Annie Hanlon, a domestic, rapped loudly on the door of Dr. King's residence last night at 10 o'clock. When the door was opened the girl fell down in an exhausted state, and when she was able to speak she claimed that a young man with whom she was walking had attempted an assault upon her person. The offender was diligently hunted for, but could not be found. It is said that he is a member of an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company now in Pendleton, and had become acquainted with the girl on the street.

L. S. Kearny, a prominent citizen, died yesterday at his home near Pilot Rock. He came to the Willamette valley in 1864 and to Umatilla in 1868. He was in his 57th year. He was a native of Louisiana.

H. J. Culbertson is seriously ill here. His physician attributes his sickness to a tack which he swallowed last summer.

Not a true bill was found by the grand jury against John Davidson, who shot and killed Alonzo Barry near Weston ten days ago.

Miss Winnie Switzler, aged 18, daughter of the late William Switzler, an old pioneer, died yesterday, after a long illness.

There was a slight collision at Umatilla Sunday night. An engine standing on a frog was run into by a west bound freight train. Both engines and several freight cars were badly smashed, but no one was injured.

The telegraph station has been re-established at Meacham, the summit of the mountains.

The infant child of W. Zeiger, of Athena, died suddenly yesterday. The child of Lyman Pierce, of the same place, died in a similar manner a few days ago. Physicians are at a loss to account for the cause.

The Bureau saloon was robbed last night of wet goods, cigars and $5 in cash. No clue.

MONTANA REPUBLICANS WIN.

Certificates From the State Canvassing Board the Only Evidence of Election.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 28.—The supreme court today decided the Thompson mandamus case by granting a peremptory writ ordering the state auditor to allow Thompson's bill for mileage and per diem. Thompson is a republican member of the legislature from Silver Bow county, being one of the five elected by throwing out Tunnel precinct. The court goes into the question of certificates and sustains the position of republicans that certificates from the state canvassing board are the only prima facia evidence of membership of the legislature. This decision makes the republican body the legal legislature.

Court Martial at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 28.—[Special Telegram.]—A general court martial convened to-day at Vancouver barracks for the trial of persons in the military service. Lieut. Col. Mears, Fourth Infantry, of Fort Sherman, is president, and Capt. W. E. Birkhimer, acting judge-advocate of the department of the Columbia, judge-advocate of the court.

Mr. Charles Brown has tendered to the stockholders of the Commercial bank of Vancouver his resignation as president, having been elected president of the First National bank.

SACRAMENTO, Jan 28.—[Special Telegram.]—There is no change in the situation on the Oregon division The sky is cloudy and threatening. Rain fell here to-night

REDDING Jan 28.—[Special Telegram]—The blockade north of this point on the Oregon & California railroad is evidently regarded as a stubborn one by the company, from the fact that the last lot of passengers held here were sent to Sacramento on the train leaving to night via Marysville Trains 15 and 17 northbound, arrived here from Sacramento to-day—the first for three days, but they cannot proceed north of this point. The washouts at Yolo, Willows, and other points below here are temporarily repaired, but the track is in very bad condition for miles.

Superintendent Pratt reached Dunsmuir this morning and ordered provisions sent to the following places Middle Creek, Kennet, Morley Elmore, Delta, Fraser's Spur, and Dunsmuir

It has been storming very heavily all day to-day at points north of here There has been only one week of pleasant weather since the middle of October

The water is flowing off the lowlands along the railroad between here and Yolo, but the wheat crop is believed to have been spoiled From College City to Marysville the water is spread over the lowlands for thirty or forty miles, giving them the aspect of an inland sea From Sacramento to Davisville the railroad track is but a few feet above the water, which is however, falling Between Yolo and Blacks the track is broken for over a hundred yards, and trains run over a temporary switch. Two miles above Willows there are two large washouts, one about 100 yards long

CENTRAL PACIFIC OPEN.

The Rails Are Slippery, and Ice Must Yet Be Chopped Off

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 28.—It now seems probable that the great blockade on the Sierras will soon be over. Last night the big rotary snow plow was dug from the snow in Cascade canyon and has done splendid work since. The track is now clear as far as the plow can clear it The snow it has been passing through to-day was nearly as hard as ice, and averaged twenty feet deep Railroad officials state that the only obstruction now is about a foot of hard trampled snow and ice which covers the rails for considerable of the way This must be removed by pick and shovel.

Officials think the blockaded trains will reach here to-morrow These trains have two weeks' mail aboard.

The high water has gone down all over the state and the washouts and landslides are generally repaired The greatest damage has been done to roads and bridges.

SACRAMENTO, Jan 28—[Special Telegram]—It was announced to-day that the blockade on the Central Pacific railroad in the Sierras was broken, but it was discovered that there was still a stretch of 200 yards of snow to be plowed just beyond Cascade cut and the rotary was about to plunge into it when some part of the machinery broke and it became useless and will probably be brought here for repairs The railroad company at once doubled the wages of the snow shovelers, and they agreed to try to clear the track It is expected that this will be done in time to start the train to-morrow forenoon The accident occurred at 2 30 this afternoon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 28.—[Special Telegram]—At a late hour to-night Superintendent Fillmore received a telegram stating that the rotary plow which had been set to work on the Salt Lake division of the Central Pacific railroad had succeeded in clearing the tracks between Wells and Toano Nevada. As a few hours will now seemingly raise the blockade on the Sierras, Fillmore gave orders for trains from Ogden to be prepared to move westward at any moment to morrow

THE RUSH AS A MAILBOAT.

On the Way to Portland With a Great Number of Delayed Pouches.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 28.—The revenue cutter Richard Rush left here at 5 o'clock this evening for the north with twenty five pouches of letters 275 sacks of papers and other mail, which arrived on the delayed Southern Pacific train at 1 30 o'clock

A train arrived over the Southern route at 1 30 o'clock this afternoon bringing a lot of additional mail, which was diverted from the Central Pacific railroad on account of the blockade, and some of this mail also went north on the Rush The cutter was under orders from Washington the government having decided not to pay the tariff demanded by the steamship line plying between here and Portland

NORTHERN PACIFIC ON TIME.

Reports of Trouble From Snow Are Without Foundation.

TACOMA Jan. 28.—[Special Telegram]—Dispatches received at the Northern Pacific headquarters state that the St Paul morning papers publish dispatches that the Northern Pacific was all blocked up with snow, and that many cattle were freezing to death, etc. The railway officials were indignant that such reports should be sent out when there was not a particle of foundation for them Telegraphic reports from all along the line to day showed the three westbound passenger trains all on time, and all the eastbound trains on time except one, which was only two hours behind, somewhere in Montana.

Snowshoe Traveler Nearly Perishes.

Girl Drowned in Kern River

BAKERSFIELD Jan 28—[Special Telegram]—Last Saturday evening at Kernville a party of young folk were watching a suspension footbridge which the river was thrashing violently, when one end pulled out of the ground where it was anchored eight feet deep. The wire in some way caught and threw seven of the party into the river One man, Frank Boston was carried several hundred yards down the stream and landed on an island He was rescued next day by a horseman. One young lady of 17, Miss Maggie Shoemate, born in Kernville, was drowned and her body found next day a thousand yards down the stream.

Southern Pacific Washouts Repaired

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 28.—[Special Telegram]—Washouts and land slides along the lines of the Southern Pacific Company in this state are rapidly disappearing Instead of being the rule, as was the case three days ago they are now the exception The road from here to Los Angeles to El Paso and New Orleans was without a break to-day, enabling two trains to arrive here from Los Angeles. The situation of branch lines to the San Joaquin valley is much improved Late this afternoon nearly all the damage on these roads caused by the storm of Sunday night had been repaired.

Snow Vanishing at Spokane

The Sultan's Curiosities

London Standard

One cannot be surprised to hear that the Sultan thinks of turning his innumerable curiosities into money. Those who have been allowed to visit the Dar es Saadet and St. Irene—a rare privilege nowadays—have been wondering ever since, probably, what motive or superstition has checked his Majesty so long Nor is it altogether surprising that a London jeweler of position should hesitate to accept the charge of valuing these miscellaneous hoards—a dozen experts of the most consummate assurance would find more than they could deal with there One thing is certain, that nobody can form an idea of how much this astonishing collection is worth. We may suppose from the choice of a jeweler to advise him, that the Sultan puts most value on his gems. Certainly they are so many and so huge that all the crown treasures of Europe could not equal the display—if only they are genuine.

But there is grave doubt on that question to begin with. Since the gates have been closed to all but a few favored visitors, there has been no effective supervision of the guardians who it must be supposed, are not paid more punctually than other officials. It was on their complaint of purloining strangers that the old facilities were withdrawn and some think that they had a motive quite different from honest indignation in that protest

When those museums are overhauled however, thousands of objects more precious than gold or jewels will be unearthed As an instance, a Hebrew succeeded in stealing three old helmets from St Irene just before the doors were closed and sold them to an English gentleman resident at Pera for less than a hundred francs apiece This gentleman parted with one for more than a thousand pounds.

A Thief Caught With a Thread.

Bangor Letter to Lewiston Journal

It is born with some human beings to steal. They do not all steal articles of great value, but little things, which though costing but a trifle, cause annoyance A person of this sort has been stealing a paper that was left each morning at the office door of a professional gentleman in Bangor the pilferer, who had rooms in the same building, but up another flight, taking it before he put in an appearance. It would be missed about twice a week, and for a time the paper boy was blamed, but later the thief volunteered the information that the office boy of another professional man in the same building took the papers and sold them In order to find out, the loser gave a week to the business of investigation, making it a point to reach his office about half an hour ahead of the delivery. Quietly entering, he made a bait of an old paper, folding it after the manner of the newsboy, punched a hole through, ran in and made fast the end of a spool of thread, and lay in wait. When his paper was dropped at his door he quietly took it in substituting the bait, leading the thread under the door The third morning the spool began to unwind, and, opening the door he saw the overhead party leading the thread up stairs. The latter heard the noise stopped, turned around, while the professional gentleman began to haul in on the thread, When all the slack had been taken up a gentle tug announced the connection the paper was dropped, pulled down stairs, and—the parties have not spoken since

The Last Tribute

Helena Journal.

There is a bond of fellowship among the pioneers of Montana which elevates them in the eyes of mankind. In sickness and distress the pioneer is surrounded by the faithful attentions of his brothers, who endured the same hardships of frontier life, unwritten laws of benevolence are obeyed, the injury of one is an injury to all. If iron clad oaths had been administered, the duty of man to man would not be more faithfully performed Behind the hearse which yesterday conveyed all that remained of X Beidler followed a hundred of those who remembered the man for his early associations in every one of those minds arose the memory of incident and adventure in which the deceased had been loyal to his trust Some of them came from distant points to pay their last respects to a man who had endured with them the vicissitudes of frontier life In the years to come the duty will be repeated, and all honor will be paid to the memory of the men who first made homes in these mountain fastnesses

ENTRY OF CHINESE MERCHANTS.

Possibility of Coolies Slipping in as Mongolian Business Men

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 28—The habeas corpus case of Gee Quong Sue, which has been of great interest here was argued in the United States circuit court to-day The question involved was whether a rule should not be laid down that Chinese merchants who absent themselves from this country for several years, should be presumed to have abandoned their residence and on returning shall be required to affirmatively show that they retain such residence here, or to present a certificate as to their status, as required by section 6 of the exclusion act

Judge Sawyer, in taking the case under advisement said he strongly believed that Chinese merchants who leave this country with the intention of returning to it are entitled to land without presenting the certificate mentioned in the exclusion act. That certificate he declared, is only required by Chinese merchants who have never been in this country It is declared by the customs officials in the Gee Quong Lee suit that if Sue is permitted to land hundreds of similar cases will arise and a long step will have been taken toward nullifying the exclusion act

A Delicate Operation.

Atlanta Constitution

Yesterday morning Keeper Havens of the Gress zoo, performed a very delicate operation

The silver lioness, Mollie chewed up a piece of raw beef, which the butcher had chopped up with a cleaver leaving some fragments of bone in the flesh It is not the custom of the keeper to give the animals flesh that contains any bone at all In this instance a sharp sliver of bone pierced the lioness' gum on the outside of the jaw next to the cheek, just below the left eye The place swelled up and festered and the animal suffered a great deal of pain Her head was swollen and she was unable to eat. Keeper Havens went to the cage and by coaxing the lioness he got her to lie down and then he slipped ropes over her fore feet, stretching them to either side of the cage and tying them securely Mollie kicked and struggled until the keeper fondled her awhile After she was secured he entered the cage all alone and taking her head between his knees he cut a small incision in the cheek, took his lance and drew out the sliver an inch in length He did the work all alone, and no one else was present during the performance of the operation After she had been released several hours he visited the cage and she met him with a gratified look holding the wound up to the bars of the cage as if she were glad that he had performed the operation that relieved her, and she appeared as docile and kindly as a kitten although she had been fierce and resentful before

He had seen that nothing more deadly than a Kodak had been directed toward him The American had made a clever snap shot

THE RACE ISSUE

Outrages in the South Unparalleled Even in Despotic Russia

PORTLAND January 28 1890.—[TO THE EDITOR]—Your editorials of the 25th on the race issue in ability and practical utility alike are in striking contrast with the demoralizing sophistical verbosity to which you refer Your correspondent, "J E R" deprecates allusions to the past as in bad taste, and says I treat the evils as imaginary. The services of the imagination are not needed after a few years' residence in the heart of the still vital Southern Confederacy, now known as the Solid South Orderly, law abiding, inoffensive colored men suddenly disappear, or when this disappearance cannot be readily brought about, a charge such as attempted rape is manufactured against a man and he is lynched the real and only cause being his persistent but peaceable claim to the right of a free ballot for himself and neighbors or in other words for saying "I am an American citizen" One such case occurred on the hill above the campground at McComb Miss. Is it good taste to commit such outrages and to be proud of it or to denounce the same? A breach of law and order by a negro can be quietly and effectively settled in a legal manner It need not be developed into a "nigger" hunt and shooting down every negro on sight in which manner a Southern sheriff admitted that about 700 negroes were killed near Shreveport, La, about 1877 Again, if on the massing of the white league the terror-stricken negroes stampede to the woods, it certainly is inhuman and brutal in the extreme to form a cordon round said negroes, gradually close in on them, and not leave one alive to tell the tale, in which manner some hundreds were killed in the Atchafalya swamp according to the description of residents in the vicinity.

The outrages against citizenship in the South since the war are unparalleled even in despotic Russia All information of such occurrences is usually suppressed by the oath bound societies who commit them No Southern editor dare proclaim them to the world In case the news leaks out then the editors will hypocritically deplore the same, and lay the blame on some irresponsible uncontrollable persons The governor of the state may take part in the farce by offering a small reward and the usual result is the perpetrators become popular In 1877, at Lexington, Miss, a nephew of Senator Barksdale, shot in the back and murdered a greenback nominee for sheriff As usual, it was said to be a personal matter but the man being on an opposition ticket was the real origin of the difficulty In 1890, a nephew of Senator George is said to have been one of the guards at the Jackson, Miss, election, which in reality insured the success of the old mossback slave-owner's ticket Senator Walthall, naturally fair minded and high principled, if asked to associate himself with a mean, contemptible action, according to A. M West's description, will hold up his head, turn away in disgust, and walk off like a turkey gobbler. He has the ability and the taste to become a leader in the new South, if a new South were possible at present but even he is so affected by environment and by the domination of such men as West and Barksdale that his speech in the senate on the Faunce incident is simply weak pitiful, pettifogging, special pleading, and by no means statesmanlike

The fact is one ticket only can be successful in the South, and that is the one supported by the old slave owners and the old leaders in the lost cause The old South and the new south are unanimous on this subject and they no longer hesitate to say so Neither of them has any other practical solution of the question than to obtain by fraud what they failed to obtain by force Hypocrisy, fraud and violence have taken defiance in as a political partner, and the firm wishes to be let alone, as does the robber, the murderer, and every other criminal who infringes on the rights and liberties of others These evils are not imaginary, but so seriously real as to tax to the utmost the combined patriotism and statesmanship of congress.

The negroes are said to be insolent The whites still wish to treat them as cattle and they naturally resent it. The whites wish them to submit to any amount of abuse and blackguardism without talking back The whites do not set them an example of abiding by the law, and then expect the negroes to rise superior to the example, even when their educational progress is impeded in every possible way, any whites teaching negroes being ostracized if not brutally treated or murdered as was a teacher at or near Holmesville, Pike county, Miss. Why could not the old massa, by kindness and justice after the war, have retained the affection of the old colored man and have preserved the harmony so gushingly depicted in Harper's Weekly The white and the negro alike has duties as well as rights, and the performance of duty by both is the first step toward the solution of the problem Will either the old South or the new South set the negro an example in this matter, and, by justice and humanity, seek his confidence and co operation?

This subject has been sufficiently discussed The negro question is a more serious one to the United States than the Irish question is to England The integrity of free institutions is at stake, and government by the people so far as this question is concerned seems to be a failure Is the present congress equal to the emergency? If so it will with as little delay as possible enforce the fourteenth amendment by appropriate legislation, and thus not only remedy the gross injustice of allowing the disfranchised colored men to be misrepresented in congress, which gives to the Southern white voter a greater control of the government than it does to the Northern man but also gain fuller power to deal with later and more serious phases of the question as they occur

CHICAGO POLICE PLOT

A Herr Most Orator Turns Out a Salaried City Agent.

CRONIN WITNESS BADLY SHOT

He Insulted a Police Captain in a Saloon—Alderman McCormick Saw It All—A Canadian Preacher's Horrible Crime.

CHICAGO, Jan 28.—The socialist and anarchist societies of this city were greatly excited over what they believe to be a huge conspiracy of the police against them A short time ago Detective Charles Nordrum was arrested and fined for alleged unwarranted assault on a man at a socialist meeting Several socialists took the matter up and demanded Nordrum's dismissal It is claimed now that the detective went to one of those interested in the prosecution to purchase leniency and proposed to give up information concerning the operations of the police, and to show that a certain supposed champion of the anarchist cause was really in the pay of the police for the purpose of creating by wild utterances a popular prejudice.

It is claimed now that Nordrum furnished fourteen reports from this spy who is Henry Dammeyer, a man who since 1886, has been one of the most aggressive anarchists in the city At the meetings none were more rabid in utterances than he, and it is now alleged that he would thus induce others to echo his sentiments and then report them to police. All this evidence was laid before the mayor and the result was an order issued to day suspending Nordrum pending an investigation into his alleged treachery The mayor and police officials refuse to talk on the subject.

A CRONIN WITNESS SHOT.

Bar-Room Brawl in Which a Police Captain and an Alderman Took Part.

CHICAGO, Jan 28—Robert Gibbons one of the witnesses for the defense in the Cronin case, was shot and badly wounded to-night by Police Captain Schnettler, as a result of an altercation in a saloon Gibbons was accompanied by several friends, including Alderman McCormick According to Schnettler's friends McCormick made some uncomplimentary remark and threw a lighted cigar into Schnettler's face The latter was about to resent the action, when Gibbons, who is a powerful man gave the captain a terrific thump on the jaw He was about to repeat it when Schnettler pulled a revolver and fired McCormick denies his reputed connection with the case saying he had gone out when the shooting occurred Schnettler was not in uniform at the time of the affair

A PREACHER'S REVOLTING CRIME.

Debauched Twenty Little Canadian Boys—A Very Mild Punishment.

OTTAWA, Ont. Jan 28—The government has just been informed of one of the most revolting revelations ever brought to light in Canada. A young Church of England clergyman in a populous parish in Western Ontario was brought before a magistrate on a charge of debauching small boys The evidence was so revolting that it cannot be printed but showed that he had debauched no less than twenty boys of tender age He was sentenced to three months in jail, the severest penalty that could be inflicted as the law stands The government will take the matter up with a view of inflicting more severe punishment

The Pope As a Reader.

Ladies Home Journal

After Mr Gladstone Pope Leo the XIII is the most vigorous man of his age of the day The routine of his work would kill an ordinary man, there is no detail too small for him to pass over, and from daybreak until after midnight he devotes his time to the church and literature. Those who surround his holiness know when he is particularly tired or worn out for then he takes down a volume of Dante and reads with the avidity of a school girl enjoying her first novel Of all the authors, Dante is the pope's favorite, and it has been remarked that in physique he is not unlike the accepted idea of that great Italian He reads Dante for pleasure, but for keeping himself well informed on all that is happening outside of the church as well as in it he reads not only American books, but newspapers and magazines, and it may surprise American readers to know that he is well informed on all the topics of the day, political, religious, and social He has taken a deep interest in the cause of labor in the United States and reads everything bearing on that subject which comes to hand Once a week a well selected bundle of American newspapers is sent to the Vatican, and the pope and those that surround him know not only what is going on in the United States, but they are familiar with the calibre and character of the men who make laws and enforce them. It is so in England also In addition to his correspondence in the British empire, he follows with eager interest the reports in the various newspapers not only of the doings of parliament, but of royalty as well, the progress of the church and the cause of labor Much the same plan is followed in Germany.

AN OPEN LETTER

From Professor J P. Looney, Principal Fulton Public School, in Favor of Drs Darrin

Drs. Darrin Have a Branch Office in Tacoma.

Editor Oregonian—Dear Sir I am not in the habit of puffing advertising doctors, but I cannot let this opportunity pass without mention, in justice to the afflicted as well as Dr Darrin. The doctor has cured me of a troublesome catarrh and bronchitis of seven years standing, by electricity and medicine The cure is perfect and permanent I cheerfully recommend his treatment, and will answer all letters addressed to me at Portland.

Jan 22, 1890 J P. LOONEY.

There is something about the success Drs. Darrin are meeting with which is truly hard to credit, yet we have it from persons whose veracity we cannot doubt, that their cures are remarkable. The above case is peculiarly striking. Professor Looney is a man of undoubted integrity and well known throughout the state and nation The above card to Drs Darrin is positive proof of the unexampled success which attends their treatment It shows how radical as well as unexpected, are many of their cures and how chronic diseases of many years' duration are unable to resist their skill, and is but one of the many cases which the doctors have undertaken, and is only ONE of the scores of patients to whom they have restored health The author of the above statement, we have full assurance in saying was actuated in publishing the same by no other motive than gratitude for his cure and a desire to make known the means to others as unfortunate as himself When we reflect what a great boon is health—when we consider that without it the slightest approach to happiness is impossible—that it is in short the greatest earthly blessing—can we be otherwise than immeasurably surprised to find anyone who has lost this great treasure and yet hesitates to follow a plainly defined path leading to its recovery? To see a sick man or woman neglect or refuse to visit Drs. Darrin, who may do him or her some good, and cannot do harm, is equally as inexplicable a mystery Try them, at all events, common sense would suggest. A consultation will cost you nothing The doctors could fill this page with responsible certificates, but their fame is so widespread it is unnecessary The doctors treat all chronic diseases at their parlors in the Washington building corner Washington and Fourth streets, Portland and Hotel Gondalfo, Tacoma

MEATS ROASTED IN THEIR OWN JUICES, BY USING THE

WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR

FOUND EXCLUSIVELY ON THE

CHARTER OAK STOVES AND RANGES.

There is not a Cooking Apparatus made using the Solid Oven Door but that the loss in weight of meat is from twenty-five to forty per cent. of the meat roasted. In other words, a rib of beef, weighing ten pounds if roasted medium to well-done will lose three pounds. The same roasted in the CHARTER OAK RANGE using the WIRE GAUZE OVEN DOOR, loses about one pound.

To allow meat to shrink is to lose a large portion of its juices and flavor. The fibres do not separate, and it becomes tough, tasteless and unpalatable.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, JAN. 29.

OREGONIANA.

The Roseburg Review boasts of splendid weather in Douglas county throughout the entire winter The Umpqua valley is indeed a favored spot

An inquirer at Mount Tabor wants to know "how long it has been since subscribers paid postage on newspapers?" About eighteen years

Rents are very high in Baker City and the erection of more business houses is much needed Landlords it is reported, are now making 8 per cent per month on their investments

A large force of men are at work on the Freestone quarry in Douglas county, and a large amount of rock is being furnished the Southern Pacific Company The rock is of a superior quality easily worked and so near the railroad track that, with proper management it will always be a profitable industry

The blue laws still have existence in Oregon Fred Scherzinger was tried recently before Justice Knifong at Tillamook charged with fishing on Sunday The charge was not substantiated Any ardent fisherman ought to possess sufficient shrewdness to circumvent a law that ought to have been erased from the statute books years ago

Wilson Wimans broke the record on the hunting business this week by getting three wild cats and a squirrel at two shots says the Hood River Glacier First he ran across a wild cat which had killed another and was making a meal off it he killed the cannibal and secured two The next one had a big squirrel for dinner and a well directed shot finished him

If the present rate of mortality as reported from various sources among the Siletz Indians continues the red men on that reservation are doomed to early extinction The various tribes settled on the reservation originally numbered over 3000 Now there are less than 600 all told and, these are rapidly passing away unto the happy hunting grounds Who will gather up their history and poetic traditions and preserve them for posterity?

Mr Mattoon, father of Hattie and Kate Mattoon says the Albany Democrat who did such wholesale robbing from their employers at Albany has made satisfactory arrangements for the settlement of the matter He expressed himself as greatly grieved at the course taken by his daughters and was anxious to make all possible reparation Mr Mattoon was very indignant at the conduct of the Smith boys of Ashland as shown by the letters found in the girls' trunks, and proposed having justice done.

The people of Tillamook are greatly inconvenienced on account of the irregular and unreliable mail service to North Yamhill No doubt the mail carriers are doing all in their power to give relief, but the Headlight suggests that whoever gets the contract for carrying the mails next year take into consideration the fact that the work will greatly increase and the figures for carrying it should be set high enough to enable the contractor to have additional force on the mountain during the worst part of the winter

WASHINGTONIANA

Olympia is already sufficiently demoralized by the legislature as to need a Young Men's Christian Association

The case [illegible] Olympia involving the authority of the city to create and maintain fire limits has been argued before Superior Judge Irwin and taken under advisement

A first class ferry boat will be put on Port Townsend bay and adjacent waters running to Irondale Hadlock Long Harbor and Whidby island A franchise for the line has already been granted.

A log sixteen feet long which will scale $200 feet of lumber was rolled into the river the other day at Centralia to be sawed at one of the mills This gives quite an idea of the immensity of some of the trees of this section

In 1889 the assessed valuation of Tacoma was a little over $26 000 000 Some of the largest taxpayers are Garretson Woodruff & Co $502 000, Grigg & Hewitt, $510 000, Grigg, Hewitt & Jones syndicate $700 000, Northern Pacific Railroad Company $846 000, Tacoma Land Company, $4 430 000 Over twenty five individuals pay on $100 000 and more

A case was tried in the justice court of J L Brown, at Tumwater, on Wednesday last that attracted a deal of local interest The suit was brought by an old man named Charles Honick against James Wilson to recover $100 lost at "faro" The jury after considering the matter less than five minutes returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $60 and costs An appeal was taken by defendant to the superior court.

A professional beggar at Olympia enswathed his hand in a voluminous bandage which he had soaked in blood at a slaughter house, and then started out to canvass the town for alms, telling the credulous citizen that he had met with a severe accident and being penniless was in sorry need and forced to beg for assistance The chief of police took his itinerant excellency in charge and hastened his departure from the city

Regarding the creation of a county made up of Spokane and Whitman the Oaksdale Sun says We expect both Spokane and Colfax to fight it, but if the legislature is true to its duty and the constitution of the state they will pay about as much attention to these wails of disapproval as a deaf man would to the roar of a Niagara An unprejudiced legislature will not hesitate a minute to obey the wish of petitions of legal voters who, in framing their petition have complied strictly with the constitution If the legislature does not give us the county we have asked for it will put itself to an open shame and bring the constitution into disrepute

KILLED BY A FALLING TREE.

Death of a Boy in the Nehalem Range—A Female Tramp His Companion.

HILLSBORO, Jan 28.—[Special Correspondence] Yesterday a party of men from the Buxton region near the Nehalem mountains, brought in the dead body of a boy fifteen or sixteen years old for disposition by the county authorities along with the body they also brought in a woman between thirty and forty years of age, who had been the companion of the youth It appears they had both tramped from Astoria on through Nehalem and were making for Forest Grove.

When on the top of the Nehalem mountains near Cape Horn, a tree was blown down upon them and the head of the young man was crushed The woman went for assistance and came to a bachelor's cabin This man assisted by one or two others, carried the young man to his cabin, where he and the woman were cared for Medical aid was received but little or nothing could be done and the young man never regained consciousness dying Saturday morning

The woman positively refuses to speak about him or divulge his name She gives the name of Marshall but it is doubtful if this is her true name as she is extremely reticent She was taken in charge by the county authorities and sent to the county poor house The body of the young man was interred to day at the expense of the county The men say that the pair were in a very filthy condition

Raising the Bonus for a Cannery W C Johnson's Condition—Attempted Burglary

OREGON CITY Jan 28.—[Special Correspondence]—The Board of Trade committee having in charge the matter of raising a bonus for a cannery have so far been fairly successful. The bonus asked is $10 000 The site has been selected just outside of the city limits on the river bank north of town

Hon W C Johnson's condition is much as it has been the past week He is daily gaining slightly in strength and may in a measure recover, but his attending physicians say that any gain can only be temporary as an abnormal growth has been found to exist in the pyloric region probably upon or in close juxtaposition to that organ. The nature of this tumorous growth is either not definitely known or is not made public Stronger nourishment is now administered to the patient and retained upon the stomach with very favorable results

Lewis Whitlatch was buried to day having died of typhoid fever

J Trembath's saloon was entered this morning by burglars through one of the back windows Besides the contents of the till some liquor was taken No attempt was made upon the safe, which stood near the front window

THE BABY HOME AND THE REFUGE HOME

PORTLAND Jan. 2 —[To the Editor]—There seems to be confusion in the minds of some persons in regard to these two institutions which the following will make clear The baby home is for infants and small children only and is situated in East Portland on Fourteenth and E streets The refuge home is what its name indicates a refuge for girls and women who having deviated from the path of virtue seek a place of refuge from the sin where they are surrounded with kind Christian influences and where special efforts are put forth for their reformation and their conversion to Christ When a girl or woman gives evidence of sufficient moral strength to enable her to battle successfully and with safety against the obstacles which are sure to beset her she is discharged from the home or in other words a home with home influences and proper employment are sought for her and she is seen on her way rejoicing The Refuge home not only receives and protects the fallen but during the last year it has been our good fortune to rescue a number of small girls, through the aid and co-operation of Policeman Wood and Ira Powers from the threshold of a life sure to end in a life of shame but for the timely aid given by sheltering and protecting them at the Refuge until in some instances the children were taken to their parents In other cases good homes have been found at the hands of benevolent and humane strangers This brief sketch, we think, will make clear the difference between the Baby home and the Refuge home and we may add for further information that the Refuge home is situated in Portland at 707 Second street corner of Columbia, in what will be recognized by our older citizens as the Cardwell property The two institutions are under separate management and the one is no way responsible for the management of the other

ASKING TOO MUCH

The following communication has been received

EAST PORTLAND Jan 28—[To THE EDITOR]—As your opinion is sought on all subjects and your advice considered by all the town, to be accepted oftener than rejected, I am going to appeal to you to use your power and suggest a Faust and Marguerite matinee for Wednesday afternoon There are numbers both on this side and the other who are very anxious to see Gounod's masterpiece who find it impossible to attend the opening night and as it is to be given but once must miss a rare treat unless it is produced again It would certainly be a rich harvest for the opera company and a great satisfaction to many who are situated as myself Hoping you may see fit to at least propose this plan * * *

As far as the above request is concerned, THE OREGONIAN does not feel at liberty to ask of the Juch Opera Company and especially of the prima donna Miss Emma Juch that she shall essay the trying role of Marguerite upon the afternoon of the day when she sings the score of Mignon It is requesting too much of the lady who contrary to her usual custom has consented to sing in five principal roles during her Portland engagement She never sings but four times a week but in deference to the event of the inauguration of the new opera house she has signified her willingness to sing five nights which is as much as in reason, could be asked

Some Queer Patrons of Art.

Chicago Herald

Artists sometimes have amusing experiences with some of their patrons who have no knowledge of art and no love for it and who buy pictures simply because it is fashionable

One of the best known Eastern artists says that he was once visited in his studio by a showily dressed and loud voiced woman who said

You give lessons in painting don't you?

The artist said that he did when his visitor seating herself for further conference explained herself thus

Well I'll tell you what I want My husband is building a big new house and we have to have enough pictures for it and you artists ask such outlandish prices for your pictures that I thought as I've got plenty of time and nothing else to do that I'd learn how to paint my own pictures I used to draw well when I was a girl

Another artist says that while in Vienna he was once waited upon by a woman who said she wanted three paintings for her parlor

I am not particular about the subjects but I want them to be about two by three feet in size and they'd better have a good deal of red in them because you see that's going to be the leading color in the carpet and furniture and the pictures ought to match the rest of the furniture

She Married in Haste

Seattle Post Intelligencer

A rather prepossessing young woman accosted Judge Lichtenberg in the courtroom yesterday afternoon and said she wanted a divorce The judge told her she would have to consult a lawyer as it was not within his province to try divorce cases or cases of any other kind

She said she wanted a divorce because she hated the man she was married to She had known her husband only since last Friday, and on Saturday married him I found out Sunday said she "that I hated him, and now I want to dissolve partnership

She was persuaded to be not quite so hasty in getting a divorce as she had been in getting married

You wait thirty days" said her attorney to whom she applied for advice "and then if you have any grounds for complaint you can bring a suit for divorce. Perhaps you will change your mind

Never "

But she concluded to wait.

Scarcity of Two-Cent Postage Stamps—Uncle Sam Buys a Quarry—Campbell Will Meet Sullivan—The Welcome Rain

THE RESTORATION.—Summer morning sun or spring southwind, never imparted hope to the disheartened more effectually than did yesterday's rain, coming down without let or hindrance, annihilating the snow and filling the air with moisture, which the hungry lungs, burdened with bronchitis and pneumonia, eagerly inhaled. The bounteous downpour affected the spirits of the populace. Pedestrians greeted acquaintances with a smile and gaily piloted their protecting shade through the sea of umbrellas. The true webfoot, native here and to the manor born, hurried out upon the street, armed cap-a-pie from hat to topboots, shoulders thrown back, chin well poised, and sniffed the ozone with pardonable zest. Ladies sallied forth on shopping errands bent and children trotted gaily off to school. The prayer for rain has been answered and hope and health are restored to Oregon.

WOULD HAVE SOLD FOR A SONG.—Ten days ago Sheriff Kelly, who owns a fine ranch, stocked with some seventy horses and about the same number of high bred cattle, would have sold all the livestock on the place for $700 net. Feed was scarce, and the great depth of snow precluded the possibility of getting any more. The buyer was expected to take the same chances he would in investing in a pig in a sack. Mr Kelly did not know whether all of the stock was alive or not, and the buyer might have obtained a bargain and he might have received nothing. Since the disappearance of most of the snow Mr Kelly has learned that his stock is all right and he is glad that he did not sell. It would now require several times $700 to induce him to accept an offer.

ARRIVED FROM NESTUCCA.—Mr J F Thomas arrived here yesterday from Nestucca en route to Astoria, he having received word that his little girl attending school there is sick with pneumonia. He came across the Coast Range on horseback. There is no snow on the western slope of the mountains as it has been raining in that section for ten days past and the streams are all at flood stage and in some places difficult to ford. On the summit and east slope of the range the snow is three feet deep, down as far as Grand Ronde, after passing which place no more snow is seen but the streams are all very high, and if the rain continues will soon be rushing and roaring out of their banks.

CONDEMNED, SOLD, PAID FOR.—The government has just paid J H Griffin, of Yaquina, $1000 for fifteen acres of land near Yaquina City on which is a stone quarry, where the rock for the jetties at the mouth of Yaquina bay is procured. Captain W Young, who was in charge of the government works at Yaquina, wished to buy the land from Griffin, but he wanted $[illegible] for the fifteen acres, which was considered too much, and suit was brought to condemn the property to the use of the government and the sum of $1000 was awarded for it which was paid a few days since. Now the government has a quarry of its own and the United States engineers have rocks to throw at the birds.

OUT OF TWO-CENT STAMPS.—Yesterday the post office here was completely out of two cent postage stamps, and persons wishing them were compelled to take one-cent stamps. This is a state of affairs which has seldom occurred, and this was brought about by the blockade of the Union Pacific. Postmaster Roby ordered $12,000 worth of stamps some time since, and they were on one of the delayed trains, which he was expecting yesterday to arrive at any moment. The people can get along very well for a time with one-cent stamps when no two cent ones can be had, but it is difficult to imagine what would be the result if there were no stamps of any kind to be had.

CAMPBELL-SULLIVAN.—Articles of agreement for a fifteen rounds sparring contest were yesterday signed by David Campbell and Larry Sullivan of Astoria. The match is to be for $500 aside and will come off Saturday evening March 1. There is a provision in the articles that there must be a winner. If the referee is unable to arrive at a decision at the end of fifteen rounds, he is authorized to order additional rounds until he is able to decide. As Campbell has repeatedly stated that he has quit the prize ring for good, there may be a few Portland sports who will be unable to understand the significance of this match. Some say they smell "rats."

SERIOUS BUT FUNNY.—A good story comes over the wires from up the valley. Two green linemen in the employ of the Western Union made a ridiculous mistake which has been of advantage to the Postal company. The two men were ordered out to do some repairing south of Myrtle creek. On their return they were asked what they had done. Their reply was that they could find no trouble on the Western Union lines, but discovering a few poles down belonging to the Postal company they fixed them up. It is needless to say that the two green men were summarily discharged.

A DISAPPOINTED BURGLAR.—At an early hour yesterday morning a thief attempted to effect an entrance into the apartments of W J Morgan, at No. 224 Second street. Mrs. Morgan was awakened by the noise at the front door where the burglar was working away at the lock, but was so scared that she did not even dare to arouse her husband. The burglar finding the lock more than he had bargained for abandoned it and turned his attention to the window. Here he was foiled again, for the window had been securely fastened from the inside, and he then left in disgust.

SEWER WANTED.—Dwellers near Twelfth and Montgomery are complaining about the need of a sewer there. The melted snow and heavy rains have filled the vaults and cesspools to overflow. The yards are covered with floating refuse, creating a standing menace to the public health. If sunny weather should set in the air would be likely filled with germs of disease. Of course there is no remedy for this but adequate sewer connection. A number of petitions have been sent in to the council, but action in the matter has been deferred.

MATCHES VIA CORVALLIS.—The steamer N S Bentley arrived in Portland yesterday afternoon, from Corvallis. She had aboard 150 tons of freight, including 1201 cases of matches. They were made in San Francisco by the Metropolitan Match Company and were brought by steamer to Yaquina and thence by rail to Corvallis, where they were finally deposited on the decks of the Bentley. The steamer also brought down a good deal of freight from San Francisco for Astoria which will go to that place on the next boat.

THE LIQUOR RESPONSIBLE.—Officer Holsapple last evening arrested a man named Royce for breaking a window in the Model restaurant on Third and Alder streets. Royce was very much intoxicated, and while walking along the sidewalk he accidentally fell through. The glass was scattered over the pastry displayed in the window, but fortunately Royce was not cut. He was booked for drunkenness and will not be prosecuted for breaking the window if he agrees to make good the damage.

EMERGENCIES.—Dr Emma J Welty of this city will address the public this (Wednesday) evening, at the Unitarian chapel in the social science course, upon the theme "Emergencies." The suggestions of a wide experience will be given, of many things that can be done when there is no physician to advise, or before the doctor comes." The lecture will be preceded with a violin solo generously tendered by Master Alfred Holt.

NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS.—The following is a complete list of newly elected, and appointed officers of Ellison Encampment, No 1, I O O F: H Claussenius C P, O C Blancy H P, C Y Lougheand S W, J J Doyle J W, G Grutze S, J C Hegele T, H Smith 1st W, F Cozens 2d W, A Smith 3d W, G A Packard 4th W, W T Nutting I S, Geo B Henry O S, A N Gamble G, J Peterson G, T J Gundel G T.

THE ELEVATOR MAN ALSO ARRESTED.—Tom Smith, the elevator man in Wilbur & Moulton's livery stable, who is said to have assisted Daniels to secrete Miss Miller in the loft of the stable, was arrested by Officer Woods yesterday afternoon. Smith is charged with assisting Daniels to entice Miss Miller away from her home for immoral purposes.

STILL IN SHOAL WATER.—Pilot Craig, of the Telephone, passed the ship Clan Mackenzie early in the day yesterday and reports her still lying in shoal water. The ship was expected up yesterday but it is thought the land wind which prevailed on the Columbia made Captain Whitelaw postpone the attempt.

NEWSPAPER AND JOB PLANT FOR SALE.—Attention is called this morning to the advertisement of the Hon Allen Weir of Olympia Wash offering a rare chance to buy an old established daily and weekly newspaper and job printing office in one of the most prosperous of the leading cities of Puget sound.

TAXED THE SEWERS CAPACITY.—The heavy rain of yesterday taxed the sewers of the city to their utmost capacity and constant watch was needed to keep the floods from inundating the streets and sewers. Street Superintendent Chapman and his deputies were kept busy all day in keeping things straight.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—Hon L T Barin, chairman of the republican state central committee, has decided upon calling the committee together in Portland on the 5th of March. He does not know about the probable date of the state convention.

WILL BE CLOSED TO DAY.—Owing to the receipt of a telegraphic dispatch conveying news of the death of the mother of Messrs Donald and Kenneth Macleay, the wholesale warehouses of Messrs Corbitt & Macleay will be closed to-day.

ST HELEN'S HALL.—The Easter term opens to-day. The corps of teachers remains the same as in the past term except that Miss Mary I Norton has returned to take charge of the art department.

CALL at the Rock Island office, 81 First street, before purchasing tickets. First. Free reclining chair cars on all through trains. Choice of routes and bed rock rates.

YESTERDAY'S COURT PROCEEDINGS

The Bonners Convicted—Jones Damage Suit Still On—Two Cases To day—Police Court—Notes

Harry Moulton, the wife beater, will be tried to-day.

Won Chin Way yesterday obtained a foreclosure of mortgage against John Wah.

Dr. Aborn's action for a certificate to practice medicine has been dismissed by his paying the costs.

Charles B Johnson and Frank Partridge, subjects of Queen Victoria, have filed their first citizenship papers.

A garnishment was yesterday served on H H Northup to secure a claim of $400 for Ladd & Tilton against H B Bryant.

The order made by Judge Stearns yesterday transferring the balance of the Holladay execution sale to James Steel, administrator, involves $3147.

The estate of W W Roberts, the sailors' home man (now deputy United States marshal), insolvent debtor, has been settled by the assignee, who is discharged.

The commissioners are at work on the lists of judges and clerks of election and road supervisors. This afternoon's session is expected to complete the task.

Al Cody is wearing himself away in suspense as to his fate. The jailer says he is eating little. The supreme court's delay is the subject for considerable criticism.

King Tom was attached in Goddard and Frazer's stable yesterday to secure R C Smith's claim of $340 against Alexander Lewis. The horse is their joint property.

The case of Samuel Wright, accused of obtaining from Edward Brady $42 by means of a fraudulent check December 13 is on the calendar before Judge Stearns to day.

Jones vs the P & W V Railway was in Judge Shattuck's court the entire day yesterday. A great mass of testimony was introduced and there is more yet to come.

The grand jury is holding daily sessions but the district attorney's time is now occupied with important cases. Several indictments may be looked for by the last of the week.

Yesterday was the dullest day yet collecting taxes in the sheriff's office. There are over a thousand more taxpayers this year than last, and it will keep one man busy writing receipts during the allotted time. Mr Kelly says people who expect any accommodations had better come up.

James Dean, convicted Monday afternoon in the criminal court of mayhem, namely by biting off a portion of John Wampler's lip, was yesterday sentenced to one year's confinement in the penitentiary. He was subsequently taken up to Salem by Deputy Sheriff Minter. Dean's sentence is the same as that of Al Cody.

DEFENDANT BECOMES PLAINTIFF

About two years ago Charles H Tigard sued Anna M Tigard for a decree of divorce which was denied him. Yesterday, however, Mrs Tigard by her counsel turned the tables upon her husband by commencing divorce proceedings against him. Her complaint alleges that in 18[illegible] when the plaintiff married the defendant, she was a widow with one child. A week after her marriage Tigard for the purpose of annoying his new wife began abusing the child and applying unkind terms to it. Since then Mrs Tigard was compelled to remove her offspring to the home of her father for protection. Other instances of cruelty are mentioned upon which ground the divorce is asked for.

THE BONNERS CONVICTED

An unusual number of people were in attendance at the opening of the state criminal court yesterday. The Nelson-Bonner trial was on. The circumstances of the robbery of John F Libby of $570 by John Bonner and Hazel Nelson, his quasi spouse, on the 17th instant, are still fresh in the public mind. Hazel's career has not been unnoticed by the police. She was in the Lizzie De Lashmutt dive, at Front and Main, some years ago. Subsequently she figured in the turmoil at "The House of All Nations." Her connection with Bonner, to whom she is said to have been married, has concluded in sending her to the pen. The case went to the jury a little before 4 o'clock and in half an hour a verdict of guilty was returned against both man and woman. The speedy agreement was not expected. It was thought an effort would be made in the jury room to fix a different degree of guilt for the man and the woman. This was made but the majority thought both were guilty though perhaps in a different degree. The first ballot stood nine to three for conviction. Some thought the woman should have been recommended to the mercy of the court. These male parasites undoubtedly force their victims to such deeds, but the law can not accept such weakness as an excuse. Six ballots only were taken. An order was subsequently made turning over the $570 to the prosecuting witness, J F Libby.

The Municipal Court.

In the police court yesterday Dan O'Brien and Frank Hart were sent up for thirty days each on a charge of vagrancy. Mack Kelly, who had been arrested for begging, was discharged, and George Heintz was fined $10 for roaming the streets after 12 o'clock midnight. Edward Holland was fined $10 for disorderly conduct, and John Hamilton, Joseph Christoff and John Murray were fined $5 each for drunkenness.

W B Daniels, the laundryman, arrested for enticing Maud Miller, a girl under sixteen years of age, for immoral purposes, and C B Higley, the hack driver, charged with abetting the seduction, were arraigned for examination, but on motion of the prosecuting attorney, hearing was continued until Thursday. The bail in each case was fixed at $500.

TIFFANY CHARGED WITH SWINDLING

J M Tiffany has been arrested on a charge of embezzling $20 belonging to the White Sewing Machine Company. The arrest was made at the instance of the manager of the company and the defendant will have a hearing before Justice Phelan this afternoon.

WISE MUST VACATE

Joe Taylor yesterday commenced an ejectment suit in Justice Phelan's court against I Wise, who occupies the building known as No 203 Front street. Taylor, who holds the lease for the building, is about to transfer it, and he desires Wise to vacate in order that he can make the deal.

World's Fair Contest.

Washington Special to Philadelphia Ledger.

The New York delegation that came here to secure the International Exposition for their city not only made a good impression but a decided success. At night at the Arlington hotel, upon invitation to socially meet Mr Depew and his associates, an elaborate lunch was served. Its abundance and quality may be inferred from the fact that forty cases of Mumm's Extra Dry were sold to lubricate the terrapin, salads and other viands that were served.

The immense salesrooms of Forbes & Breeden, No 24 First street, will soon be filled with the most complete stock of furniture that has ever been shipped to Portland. Mr Breeden, the junior member of the firm, is now in the Eastern market making selections of stock, and from a communication recently received from him it becomes known that the assortment of furniture will contain in addition to the staple goods many specialties and novelties in the furniture line, hitherto unknown in the Portland market. Among these may be mentioned the celebrated folding bed, hat racks, tables, side boards and patent table wash stands manufactured by the Phoenix Company of Grand Rapids. This company show the greatest novelties in finish and design of Belgium oak, mahogany, sixteenth century cherry and bog oak, all of which will be of interest to Portland people. There will also be in stock the finest line of upholstered goods ever sold to a western firm, some in white enamel and some in pure gilt frames, others in sixteenth century oak, all overstuffed, some of which will be covered in wilton rugs, others in silk tapestries and coatelines. All intending purchasers should wait to examine the fine new stock of Messrs Forbes & Breeden.

QUALITY OF INTRINSIC VALUE.

common with all extreme advocates of ited silver coinage, Senator Teller, of ado, complains that all legislation that or proposes to limit the coinage of would treat silver "merely as a comy"—as "so much pig iron." Gold, he has the advantage of free coinage and ation under the stamp of the govern- while silver, not having this advan- is beaten down in price.

re is palpable confusion of ideas here. e fact is a commodity, and never can thing else, while there is an attempt ke silver something more than a odity, that is, to give it currency and through the favor of the government. tands on its own legs the world over. tamp of a government not only is not ary to give it value or add to its value, fact does neither, and attempts to do In any form, the world over, gold uy as much as when it has a govern-'s stamp upon it, which stamp doesn't ise its value in the least, but is merely tificate by a competent authority of the ht and fineness of the piece, and there- is a convenience, but is not an element lue. At any place, or in any event, the but for its more convenient form, d buy no more than bullion.

ese conditions the extreme advocates lver wish to reverse, in the case of their tile metal. They want the government t its stamp on all silver that may be ght to its mint, so as to give the silver tional value by making it bear on its statement that it is worth more than ally is. They want a policy that would ase as they suppose the value of silver, which in fact would only temporarily in- e its nominal purchasing power. Only orarily we say, because the inevitable t would be a steady rise of all prices ured in silver, since, under unlimited age, silver in the course of exchanges, d buy less and less, until it reached a t where it would simply pay for what it worth as bullion. It is held above that t now by restriction of its coinage and imited consequent interchangeability gold.

t this interchangeability would be lost er free coinage of silver. It can only be tained by keeping silver in its present tion of a subsidiary coinage, or by pro- g in some way that the intrinsic value of ilver in every dollar shall at all times be l to its nominal value. The first object ccomplished by limiting the coinage of r. So long as gold is made the chief ey metal and is generally accepted as rue standard of value, silver coins of intrinsic value may be largely employed a subsidiary currency in minor anges. It will pass in this way at its inal value, just as the fractional silver ency, worth still less intrinsically, pass- its nominal value. The gold carries it. entirely proper to coin and circulate as much silver as can be carried and tained at its nominal value in this way. it ought to be perfectly understood that, e natural limit of a subsidiary coinage is eded, gold will break down under the len, interchangeability will cease, silver be at a discount as compared with gold, demands of foreign exchange will drain country of gold, our own currency will ine to the silver standard, the purchas- power of the silver dollar will fall to its al value, and prices of all commodities rise in proportion.

e other method of maintaining the in- changeability of silver and gold is so rovide that the gold and silver dollar l always have the same intrinsic value. is impossible with actual coin- because the value of sil- is fluctuating in relation to , the accepted standard and measure of e of the whole civilized commercial d. To-day, about 500 grains of pure er are worth a dollar. Coins containing amount of metal would be interchange- with gold now; but, three months from , they might be worth more or less. It possible to make coins of two metals anently interchangeable. Mr. Win-'s silver plan is a device to escape this ossibility, by employing a sort of silver ficates instead of coins, each represent- a dollar's worth of bullion at a certain and redeemable either in the same unt of bullion or in gold at its nominal e. This secures a certain clumsy inter- ageability, and provides a way to use sil- as a money metal without exposing the ness of the country to the inevitable s of free coinage. It is an honest attempt he part of the government to go as far is safe to go in admitting silver as a ey metal. It ought to be satisfactory to ybody but the selfish mine-owner who ts the government to pay him 40 per premium, and the swindling debtor wants to scale down his debts 40 per e New York Herald lectures the New land states for their inconsistency in g President Harrison 38 out of their 44 oral votes in 1888, and sending 23 high f republicans to congress out of a dele- on of 26, while they are clamoring for democratic doctrine of free trade in raw rials. The Herald says:

> w England wants free wool, free iron ore, coal, free scrap iron and a strong reduction e duty on pig iron. Why did not the men now clamor for this vote the democratic t? The democrats offered these things, but ffer was contemptuously rejected by New and. In the present house there are only democrats—three friends of free coal, free , free iron ore—from all New England. If England really wanted free raw material, section ought to have and would have sent ty-six democrats to congress. Then free raw rials would have been a natural and sure re- Let us have honest politics. If New Eng- really wants free raw materials, her people ay so next fall in the congressional elec- s. The attempt now making in New England rs, on the inspiration of manufacturing cap- sts, to bulldoze New England congressmen bolting from their party on the tariff is dis- st to the last degree.

is reproach would be entirely just, if assumption upon which it is based were ranted. But we don't believe it is. We t believe the people of New England t any of these things a few interested ufacturers are clamoring for. The Her- commits a common and familiar logical r in taking the part for the whole. It is tle group of manufacturers who want trade in raw materials, bearing about same numerical relation to the people of as the nine tailors of Tooley street to people of old England. The last cam- n was made in New England distinctly n the tariff issue. The verdict of the le of those states upon it is certainly a trustworthy indication of what they than the clamor of two mugwump pa- and the resolutions and petitions of a knot of interested capitalists.

is not easy to see why the people of England, the rank and file who work actories, cultivate farms and elect con- men and presidential electors, should free trade in raw materials. What would it do them, pray? It would pen nothing that they have to buy. It d add to the price of nothing that have to sell. It would simply money into the pockets of certain manu- rers, to enable them to continue what all foresee must become a losing business r the present conditions. It would not increase the wages of labor, since the England manufacturer will still have to the competition of his more favorably situated western rival and must scale wages down to the lowest point in order to do business at all. There is only one reason why New England should wish for free trade in raw materials. If they were absolute free traders in opinion, if they believed that free trade in all articles would be better for the farmer, the laborer and the artisan, they might join in the clamor of the manufacturers For it is certain that free trade in raw materials means free trade all around. If New England wants free wool, free iron, free coal, the western consumer wants free blankets and clothing, free agricultural implements and hardware. He is willing to pay a tax on what he consumes in return for protection on what he produces. Deny him the latter, and see how quickly he will repudiate the former. The New Englander, like the western consumer, would benefit by free trade in finished goods, and might reasonably join in the present crusade as a step towards it, but it is doubtful if his support would be welcomed by the manufacturers on these terms.

SEAL PROTECTION.

In obedience to a resolution passed by the United States senate, to postpone action upon bids for the lease of the Seal islands until after February 20, the secretary of the treasury has declared his intention to hold back his advertisements until February 21. As under the law now existing the lease must be made by May 1, not only is the time for considering bids made unreasonably short, but the successful bidder, if it be a new firm, will have but very little time to prepare for carrying on the business.

In the meantime no steps have apparently been taken for the protection of the industry, though it is an universally accepted fact that, without protection, there will soon be no industry. The measures adopted in this direction in previous seasons have only brought ridicule upon the departments of the government having these matters in hand, and vexation to the souls of unfortunate officers of customs and the revenue marine, charged with carrying out indefinite and sometimes impossible orders.

The proclamation of President Harrison, issued a year ago, stated in plain and dignified language that the United States considered the seal rookeries as a national reservation, and that private sealing vessels would be seized if caught following their pursuit in Bering sea. Such a document, emanating from one of the great governments of the earth and giving fair warning of its intentions in ample time to prevent business men from investing money in a traffic thereby declared illegal should have elicited an immediate reply from all maritime powers interested, but certainly from Great Britain. It seems, however, that no such reply came in the shape of either protest against or acknowledgment of the claim. American sealers, being assured that the government was in earnest, generally kept out of Bering sea, only to witness the farce enacted there of seizing British vessels, confiscating a few skins and then sending the craft to Sitka in charge of a single man who, of course, could not prevent their going to Victoria instead. The consequence of these half-way measures is that already twenty-eight sealing schooners are being fitted out in British Columbia, and will be ready to sail in a few days to follow up the schools of seals as they appear along the coast on their way to Bering sea.

The policy pursued in dealing with this question has always been the same. In no single instance of seizure of a sealing vessel has the law been allowed to take its course, until it has become a matter of mingled ridicule and disgust with the officers charged with the duty—a duty to be avoided rather than to be performed—and if no change be contemplated in this respect, it would be better for the United States to recede promptly from the position taken heretofore, and to relieve a congress already overburdened with bills from further legislating on the subject.

The attitude of Russia in protecting her seal islands situated also in Bering sea, but more directly in the open highway to the Arctic, has been more dignified as well as more effective.

On Bering and Copper islands a military guard has been stationed to prevent the landing of sealers, and one or more armed cruisers of the Russian navy watch the surrounding waters. In addition to this a government officer, authorized to make seizures, is placed on each of the vessels of the lessees, which carry the Russian flag. The most important feature of Russia's policy, however, is that seizure really means seizure and confiscation of everything. Crew after crew of venturesome Americans, Englishmen and Japanese have been taken off their vessels and carried to the ports of Vladisvostok, Nikolaievsk and Petropavlovsk to find their way home as best they could, and at the same time the Russian government does not find itself involved in any dispute on the subject. The master of one of the Alaska Commercial Company's vessels, under the Russian flag was prosecuted in San Francisco for piracy in making one of their seizures, but was acquitted upon the evidence presented.

During the last few years sealing ventures in the waters adjoining the Russian islands have been almost totally abandoned, and we are confronted with the strange paradox of seeing a claim identical with ours in Bering sea, and founded upon the same basis, both enforced and respected in Russia's hands, while it is neglected by government and disregarded by the public in ours.

"LUMP SUMS" FOR RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

Our representatives in congress are determined that if the Columbia river does not have an equal chance in the matter of appropriations with other great waterways of the nation it will not be their fault. Representative Hermann's $75,000 amendment in favor of the Columbia river to the senate bill calling for an emergency appropriation of $250,000 for the Missouri river has been a matter of congratulation throughout the state, and now Senator Dolph comes in with a bill asking an appropriation of a lump sum for the improvement of the Columbia river aggregating $3,848,600, in imitation of like bills for the improvement of the Sault Ste. Marie and other rivers.

It has not, as is well-known, been the policy of congress heretofore to make "lump" appropriations for river improvements. Its policy, on the contrary, has been to dole out the money, the sums appropriated from year to year being in many instances scarcely more than sufficient to repair the ravages of water and weather upon the work of former years.

That this is economy of the penny wise and pound foolish order all admit, yet so wedded has congress been to custom in these cases that the error has been repeated from year to year to the great detriment of the public interests in which the work was originally undertaken. River and harbor improvement throughout Oregon has suffered unnecessary delay, and the federal government has been put to unnecessary expense in conducting it because of this expensive and dilatory policy. The story is the same, whether told concerning the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia, the building of the locks at the Cascades, or the construction of government works at Yaquina. The money has frequently given out at the most inopportune times and at the most critical points, and suspension of work has been followed by dilapidation, more or less serious according to the severity or mildness of the season and the long or short period of suspension.

An "emergency appropriation," designed to avert or arrest injury to the work caused by absolute suspension of operations for several months of each year is aptly named, and the arguments urged in securing it might be used with effect in advocating the "lump appropriations" for which Senator Dolph's bill provides. There is, perhaps, little prospect that these appropriations will be favorably considered, since the reasons back of them are the same that have been urged for years in favor of larger or "lump" appropriations for public works undertaken, but it is good wise policy to ask for what is needed, although an affirmative answer is among the things wholly unexpected.

BRUTALITY AND BARBARISM.

Ours is not yet an ideal republic. The fact has been brought into prominence through recent outrages in the South, commented on in the senate, that there is less protection for American citizens in parts of our own country than in the most distant quarters of the globe. In Mississippi and other Southern states there is no redress for the most hideous outrages, for the most flagrant violation of the citizen's constitutional rights, in any case wherein political prejudice is aroused against him; and this barbarian intolerance is directed as well against whites as blacks, as the case of Taince, in Mississippi, proves.

This case was one of peculiar outrage. Citizens of Aberdeen, Miss., were indulging themselves in the pleasure of burning in effigy Secretary Proctor, of the war department, in retaliation for his omission to suspend at half-mast a flag over the department building at Washington in honor of Jefferson Davis. Faunce, a white citizen of foreign birth, a tinner by trade, at work on the top of a building, accidentally loosed a rope that suspended the effigy; and for this act he was seized by constituents of the Mississippi senators, whipped brutally and otherwise maltreated, and ordered to leave the town. As Senator Ingalls said, suppose a citizen of the United States had been thus foully dealt with in any distant country of the globe, what then? We would have reparation, or there would be war.

Under the brutal despotism that prevails in our Southern states, men are obliged to take refuge in silence and in abjuration of their political and constitutional rights. In ten states the repression is general. There is no equal despotism in any portion of the civilized globe. And the worst of it is that the country at large is as yet too cowardly to apply any remedy. This species of outrage based on political intolerance, has been going on in the South during fifty years, or ever since the politics of slavery became the controlling force in that region. As a survival of brutality and barbarism, it appears hopeless.

Emotional religion of a type that was aroused by the labors of Peter Cartwright in the pioneer era of the Middle West, though not as common in these calculating days wherein a reason is required for all things as in the olden times, still enjoys occasionally a spasmodic "revival" during which "mourners" grovel and wail at the "anxious seat," sisters shout, brethren exhort, and enthusiasm is deepened by a rapturous singing of never-ending choruses and the resounding voice of prayer. The number of converts is triumphantly heralded from the pulpit amid the fervent "amens" of the workers, and the "revival" proceeds until having run its regular course it subsides, and lethargy in proportion to the physical exhaustion induced by a violent play upon the emotions supervenes. Very little, comparatively, of the "religion" professed while laboring under this strain of mental excitement and physical exhaustion is of a permanent type. It would be a wonder, indeed, if much of it did not subside with the fervor that induced it. This is a natural consequence of irresponsible action, and to the extent that it weakens in the mind of its subjects, a veneration for things intuitively sacred to the human heart emotional religion with its ephemeral frenzy is to be deplored.

The republicans of the house of representatives have cut out a trying task for Speaker Reed. In view of their narrow and precarious majority, they have determined to act upon all the contested election cases before adopting the new code of rules. This means that the bitterest and most sharply contested partisan struggle of the session is to be fought out with the house in its present anomalous condition, one side claiming that the rules of the last session are still in force, and the other holding that these expired with the last congress and that the house is legislating under the rules and practice of common parliamentary law only. The republicans, having the speaker and a majority to sustain him, will easily enforce their holdings; but this will not prevent the opposition from contesting and obstructing every step of their proceedings. Under the vague general principles of parliamentary practice, the speaker will often be called upon to make decisions on his own authority that cannot possibly be acceptable to the democrats. His position is one of great delicacy and difficulty. So far, he has filled it with more firmness, tact and discretion than his career on the floor warranted his most enthusiastic admirers in expecting from him.

Even the plebeian abbreviation "Wash.," to which the citizens of the state of Washington were compelled to submit in designating their state, has been found insufficient to protect the mail matter of two diverse portions of the country from delay and confusion, and the superintendent of the railway mail service has ordered that all slips on packages of letters and sacks of papers be marked "Washington State," and "Washington, D. C.," according to their destination. It is evident that among the mistakes of the people of the new state the decision to retain the name of Washington is one that is likely to cause as much inconvenience in the future as any other. Confusion resulting from a similarity of names is something that a people might easily spare themselves, and it may be considered unfortunate that they did not do so in this instance.

Frank J. Bell, of Roseburg, Tangent and Albany, is in trouble. He has, it appears, an uxorious taste, the indulgence of which, is prohibited by our tyrannical laws, and finding himself face to face with two wives, and a damsel whom he was wooing as number three, he was compelled by the heartless minions of the law to go to jail in the last named city, where he languishes in default of $2000 bonds. The young man, though something of a traveler, had evidently mistaken his location, and it may be presumed that after his term in the Oregon penitentiary is finished he will stick close to Utah or Southern Idaho, where a man has a better chance to indulge an abounding affection for various women at the same time, under the sanction of marriage, than he has in other sections of the Union.

The Denver bank robbery that caused such a sensation a year or two ago, and of which the public is still in doubt as to whether it was a reality or a myth, was duplicated in boldness and the escape of the perpetrator by the levy upon a faro bank in Seattle Monday afternoon. It is inconceivable how a man can call upon another, in a public place in a city to stand and deliver, force compliance with the demand and get away with the booty, all in broad daylight—yet this was the role that the Seattle desperado played successfully. That city may have outlived the era in its history where impromptu hangings are possible. It may be hoped, indeed, that such is the case, but it may not be well for the reckless criminal from the Whitechapel district to press his thieving methods to the point of blood-shed as did the foot-pads of the city on a memorable occasion some seven years ago. A combination of lawlessness among men, inefficiency among officers and dilatoriness of the courts tries the temper and finally exhausts the patience of the law abiding citizen until he reaches, or may reach a point where forbearance may be reckoned among the more steadfast virtues. It is bad enough for the orderly citizen to be forced to sleep with one eye open, and his revolver under his pillow as he is at present doing in this city, while the sneak-thief laughs at the futile efforts of the police to apprehend him, but when the thief, encouraged by the success of the midnight prowler fearlessly and successfully plies his vocation in broad daylight, the thing gets to be serious.

Arrangements have been made with the Girard Life Insurance, Annuity and Trust Company, whereby it agrees to pay an annuity of $50 to each orphan made so by the flood in the Conemaugh valley until the child shall reach the age of 16 years. There are 322 such orphans, and for this purpose an appropriation of $165,000 was made by the state flood relief committee of Pennsylvania. There are also 116 widows, made so by the flood, and to these the sum of $95,000 is to be paid in annuities for a certain term of years, terminating with the period at which their children become self-supporting. The intelligence and forethought in dispensing charity in this way commends itself to the common sense of mankind.

The death of Mrs. S. A. Clark at her home in Salem on Monday evening removes from the scenes of a useful and honored life one of the few remaining pioneer women of Oregon territory. The announcement of her death will recall in many minds recollections of kindness and courtesy received at her hands, both in her own home and in the social circle of which she for many years formed a part. Those who loved her, while they mourn the decree that called her hence, can but feel that nature dealt kindly with her in sparing her the physical suffering and depression of spirits that result from a long and wasting illness.

Cleopatra's needle which, escaping wreck and defying storm, was several years ago safely landed and added to the attractions of New York city, does not bear the climate well, and a committee was some time since appointed to see what could be done to protect the huge monolith from the further ravages of the elements. Professor Ogden Doremus, chairman of the commission, says, pending an official report, that all that can be has been done to protect the needle, but declines to say whether it is in process of decay or not. A climate that is not healthy for an obelisk must be rather trying.

Since the 1st of January, 1888, the enormous sum of $5,000,000 has been spent in the construction of church buildings in New York city. The Episcopal church leads in this expenditure, having spent $1,485,000; The Catholic follows with $1,124,000; the Presbyterian with $480,000, and the Methodist with $275,000. It may well be judged from this that "orthodox" religion is still popular in fashionable circles, even if rationalism is growing among the masses.

Mr. Cleveland, it is reported, has asked Mr. Mills to write an answer to Mr. Blaine's article on the tariff in the North American Review. How would it do for Mr. Cleveland to undertake that little job himself?

PERSONS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT.

Mr. Howells, during his editorship of the Atlantic Monthly, declined one of his own contributions. Is there another instance on record of a similar feat of editorial self-denial?

Senator Squire received an invitation to attend the last banquet of the Philadelphia Clover Club, but sent his regrets. The Clover is the most famous dining club in the city.

Nathan Frank, of St. Louis, is one of the new members of congress, and in his maiden speech recently, he alluded to Christopher Columbus as the gentleman who discovered America.

The Rev. Dr. Chester, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian church, Capitol Hill, Washington, D. C., announced to his congregation that Samuel J. Randall and Mrs. Randall had been admitted to membership in the church.

Marshall P. Wilder, the dwarf humorist, is under engagement to Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to visit all the New York hospitals and play jester to the patients. In this manner many of the sick are laughed back to health and happiness.

Henry Villard, who has been ill for a long time and unable to attend to business, is recovering under massage treatment. His physical troubles have dwindled down to a slight inconvenience, caused by muscular rheumatism in his shoulder.

Oscar S. Strauss, who was Mr. Cleveland's minister to the sublime porte, is one of the most popular Hebrews in New York. His writings on Turkey and the Turks are said to be piquant. He is one of the seven out of ten foreign ministers who write when they come home.

Congressman Flower, who is on the world's fair committee, eight years ago defeated William Waldorf Astor for membership in the lower national house. He is a wealthy man, and is said to have spent $72,000 on the contest. Young Astor found consolation for political defeat in writing good novels.

During his busy lecturing season Mr. George Kennan fights shy of social engagements of all kinds. "My health," he writes to a friend, "is a good deal shaken. I have already spoken fifty-five nights this season. I have 150 more engagements to fill and I am not at all sure that I shall be able to stand this strain. The only way in which I have been able to keep up thus far is by declining all invitations and taking as much rest as possible—sleeping some mornings until noon.

The Rev. Robert Collyer said recently "Not many men know how to behave when they give a minister his fee for marrying them. It seems to embarrass them for some reason. I remember once out in Indiana that a man whom I had just united in marriage to a very comely young woman, gave me $10 for the fee. As he did so he blushed and stammered. Then he said with perfect candor: 'I would like to give you more, doctor, and—and I will next time.' His bride overheard him, and looked at him in a queer way, but he evidently didn't realize what he had said in his embarrassment."

Persons in Portland.

Mr. W. H. Meade, of the Northwestern, contemplates an early trip to San Francisco.

Mr. George Hill, traveling agent of the Union Pacific, is at Spokane with the Duff Opera Company.

Mr. Charles Kennedy, general agent for the Rock Island, leaves for the East to-morrow, having been called in by the officials of the road to confer on matters of importance.

Mr. E. A. Hackett, assistant general agent of the Burlington, has just returned from a tour of the Sound country and Spokane, in the interests of the road. He reports the weather there as bad as it has been here.

A Burlington circular from Omaha announces the appointment of W. I. Vaill as city passenger agent there, vice H. L. Hall. Harry Hall is well known here, but no information has been received as to his future movements.

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS.

CLEAR OUT THE GAMBLERS.

Seattle Journal: We believe the city of Seattle has an ordinance forbidding gambling houses. We are under the impression that there are certain city officials sworn to execute the city's laws. Notwithstanding these facts, gambling houses are running freely and openly in this city on almost every officer's beat.

IDAHO'S CLAIM FOR RECOGNITION.

Idaho Daily Statesman: Idaho's claim to statehood entitle her to instant admission to the Union. She has a population of 120,000 people and her cities and towns are thriving and progressive. In the Snake river valley are 5,000,000 acres of prolific land. It needs but irrigation and the tickle of a hoe to blossom into a harvest. Even by private enterprise irrigating works are spreading with amazing rapidity, and if the government takes up the matter, in less than a dozen years in this valley will be located the happy homes of half a million people.

JOBBERY AND THE REMEDY.

Seattle Sunday Observer: The repeated evidences of jobbery in the management of city affairs by the council have given rise to a demand for the establishment of a board of public works. The jobbery is obvious, but the proposed remedy is doubtful. If such a board were established it would take away a number of the functions for which the city council exists, would be a rival to that body to a certain extent, and in cases where the co-operation of the two would be necessary, a clash, injurious to the public interests, would be likely the result.

BEST TO TELL THE TRUTH.

Tacoma Daily News: A morning contemporary, probably not succeeding as well as it anticipated, misses no opportunity for giving Tacoma a black eye. Once it wound up an exaggerated statement concerning a small failure with the remark that "there is more to follow," and now it is endeavoring, by publishing sensational reports of the condition of the city's water supply, to create another kind of a panic. This is not the way to help Tacoma along.

MONEY SHOULD FLOW FREELY.

Tacoma Ledger: To attempt to follow money out of the state for taxation is very unwise, if not unconstitutional. It tends to keep money away, to make it more difficult and expensive to procure it for use in the state. Every state which has attempted to tax the mortgages of non-residents has added to the burdens of the debtor class and arrested development. The costly experience of Oregon should not be repeated here.

SPOKANE IS FORTUNATE.

Astorian: Spokane is fortunate. She is situated just right. Tacoma and Seattle are continually fighting. They always will snap and bite at each other. Spokane is independent and can devote all her surplus wind to booming herself. She bothers herself over no near rival. Astoria is likewise situated and must devote all her energies to her own growth.

WISH FATHER TO THE THOUGHT.

Helena Herald: It is rumored that a controlling interest in the Journal has been offered to Eastern parties, the desire of Mr. Harrison being to release himself from one of two papers located more than 2000 miles apart. Overwork has impaired Mr. Boos's health, and a fine ranch in the Flathead country is an allurement to agricultural life.

LACK OF BUSINESS BASIS.

Times-Mountaineer: The recent failures in Tacoma are due from a lack of substantial basis in business. The increased value in real estate may cause business men to thrive and prosper for a while; but to insure permanency there must be a change of commodities for coin, and this must have a foundation in some home industry.

ALBANY ALSO LIKES A FIGHT.

Albany Herald: Pugilism is on the wane in San Francisco, and the interest that has heretofore been centered in that city is being transferred to Portland. After Portland has been taken in by as many fakes in this line as has San Francisco, the bruisers will probably pass on to new fields in Tacoma and Seattle.

HUMOR OF THE "GLOBE."

Tacoma Globe: John H. Mitchell, jr., heard a little Spokane girl ask her father what the rain says to the dust. The father gave it up, and the little one explained: "It says," she said—so Mr. Mitchell says she said—"Ah there! stay there! I've got the drop on you, and your name is mud."

A BLISSFUL SPACE.

Ellensburgh Register: The people of Waterville have had no mail for so long that they are absolutely lost. A sad-eyed and weather-beaten resident of that isolated burgh wandered into town to-day and wanted to know who had been elected president, Cleveland or McGinty.

NO FREE WOOL FOR US.

Helena Journal: Of one thing the wool growers of Montana may be assured and that is that in the revision of the tariff now in process at Washington there will be no such a stipulation as the Mills bill had in favor of free wool.

DUTIES CUT SHORT.

Dayton Chronicle: The postmaster has had but little to do this week except to say that no mail has arrived since the last report and to give a professional opinion as to why the train was not in and when it would be in.

A DESIRABLE CHANGE.

Astorian: An Eastern Oregon editor says that he expects to go to heaven when he dies. He will doubtless find such change of location desirable.

Wide West Crew to Be Paid.

Seattle Post Intelligencer.

The reports that have appeared regarding the unjust treatment of the crew of the wrecked steamer Wide West within the past few days prove upon investigation to be false. The following statements show conclusively that the sensational articles referred to were inspired by malice rather than a desire to state facts. Mr. Walter Ely, the manager and secretary of the Puget Sound Steam Lighter and Transportation Company, when questioned last night regarding the charges that the crew of the wrecked steamer had been allowed to remain in destitute circumstances and that no steps had been taken to secure their wages, said: "The whole story is false and misleading. As soon as the stockholders of the company were apprised by Captain Sparling of the full extent of the loss that had befallen them in the complete wreck of the steamer Wide West, they met and discussed the situation thoroughly. At this meeting the question of paying the men was raised, and it was unanimously agreed that the men should be paid in full, even though the stockholders who were able to do so were obliged to pay them out of their own means, regardless of the fact that their stock was fully paid."

Trouble on Shipboard.

Port Townsend Morning Leader.

Some trouble was reported on board the ship Henrietta yesterday, which is now lying at Hadlock. First Officer Taylor was ordering the men out to duty in the morning, when one of the seamen refused to obey the orders of the officer, who, it is said, drew a revolver and shot at the belligerent seaman. The latter was very much impressed by this display of authority and "bravery," and humbly submitted to further orders. One report was to the effect that when the officer drew the revolver a third seaman knocked it out of his hand with an iron which was lying near, and that a general fight ensued. This report, however, could not be confirmed.

Olympia Legislators Conclude the Anti-Boodle Farce.

THE CLOWN HAS A NEW JOKE

Recent Investigation Cost $1500—The House Wastes Three Hours Hearing a Report, and Then Applies the Whitewash.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 28.—[Special Telegram.]—The great anti-boodle society story, which has been the sensation for two weeks, resulted to-day in a Scotch verdict. The house spent over three hours in wrangling over the matter, and wound up by applying the whitewash brush to Moultray and Cook. That was the best the house could do, but it did not satisfy the two members. They wanted the reporters to be either expelled or censured, but as they had admitted in their testimony before the investigating committee that they had undertaken the organization of a society that was not needed for the expedition of business and not practicable, the house could not give them the clean bill of health they desired. A majority of the members of the house believed as Kuhn, Judson of Pierce and Chairman Edens of the investigating committee believed, that an effort was on foot to organize an unnecessary society, and that if the reporters had waited a day or two somebody would have been hurt, and the reporters would not have been the ones.

The investigation was a farce from beginning to end. In the first place there was no authority for the investigation in the constitution. No specific charge having been made, there was nothing to investigate. No one ever committed a crime in organizing an anti-boodle society. Then the house insulted the investigating committee by refusing to enforce power to extract testimony. No wonder the legislature is in contempt with the people, as Kuhn expressed it. Despite the earnest protests of sensible members, the house insisted on hearing the evidence taken by the committee read. The failure of the investigating committee to present a verdict made matters worse. There were frequent motions to dispense with the reading of the evidence, but not until there had been a call of the house did the motion prevail. The house afterward reconsidered the motion and continued the reading, which consumed three hours.

All this time little Clark of Spokane, whom the Seattle Press has dubbed the clown of the legislative circus, had been preparing a resolution to expel Reporter Scott, of the Seattle Journal, and THE OREGONIAN correspondent. He scratched out THE OREGONIAN man's name and made it apply only to Scott. The resolution was strongly condemned by Nims, Evans, Tucker, Kuhn and Judson of Pierce. The cause of Clark's resolution was Scott's article in the Journal, which was stronger than those published in the other papers. Kuhn boldly declared that the evidence convinced him that but for Scott the society would have been organized, and if Scott had waited forty-eight hours the society would have materialized. Judson of Pierce reiterated Kuhn's remarks and said Scott did nothing more than what an enterprising correspondent should do. Shaw, whom Cook and Moultray had claimed as a member of the society, said there was no doubt there was a foundation for the story. Plummer said he was convinced there had been an effort to classify the members of the house into two sets.

Clark maintained that if the house did not expel Scott the anti-boodle story would be used against the republican party next fall. Speaker Fleighan grew red in the face and promptly rapped Clark to order for branching off into politics. Eddy was the only one who supported Clark's resolution.

The house then, by an almost unanimous vote, accepted Blair's substitute, whitewashing all concerned, and little Clark folded his tent and, like the Arab, stole silently away. The investigation has cost the state about $1500.

Those outgoing senators who contemplate ousting the seventeen hold-over senators might as well give up the idea at once. An ousting bill will never pass the legislature. All of the short term senators are not in favor of such a measure, as one might be led to suppose. The hold-over senators are opposed to it to a man.

It would be foolish for the republicans to think for one moment of turning the hold-overs out of office. There is altogether too much at stake. Next year the legislature will have to elect a United States senator to succeed Squire. Squire and his friends do not want to see the hold-overs turned out.

A prominent Eastern Washington outgoing senator, talking about the matter to-night, said: "The question of the legality of the terms of the holdover senators is one of more than passing interest. The constitution imposes upon this legislature the duty of dividing the state into 'single senatorial districts of contiguous territory, consecutively numbered,' and that all elections after the first, had by virtue of the constitution, shall be held in these single districts. The constitution also provides that all those elected in even numbered districts at the first election shall hold office for three years and that those in the odd numbered districts shall retire at the end of the first year.

"Here are two requirements of the constitution which nullify each other. For example, let us take Whitman county, which constitutes the fifth district. According to the constitution, its three senators, living in an odd district, retire at the close of the first year, and if Whitman county gets its proper and full representation three more senators will have to be elected next fall. But at the next election the senators are to be elected by single senatorial districts consecutively numbered, and as Whitman county has three senators, at least one district must be even, and by the terms of the constitution not eligible to elect a senator.

"If the state is redistricted as proposed by the constitution, Stevens county would be the first district, Spokane the second, third and fourth, Lincoln the fifth, Okanogan, Adams and Franklin the sixth, and Whitman the seventh, eighth and ninth. In that event Whitman county would, if language of the constitution is literally construed, be entitled to elect one senator next fall in that district, which happened to be numbered even. On the other hand, Spokane, with her three hold-over senators, would be entitled to elect another senator in her third district, which would give her four senators in the next legislature. Whitman would have only two senators, which would be a violation of every principle of just representation, and would be foreign to the intent and meaning of the constitution, especially so if an easier way can be found out of the dilemma.

"Before suggesting a remedy, let us look at one of the clearest implications of the constitution, viz., that of lessened representation in the next legislature. Two bills have been introduced for that purpose, one by a democrat and the other by a republican. Senator Farris's bill divides the state into twenty-one senatorial districts. Does anyone suppose for a moment that if this bill should become a law, the seventeen senators who represent the districts numbered even in Article 22 of the constitution, would holdover, and that next fall only four new senators would be elected to represent King, Whitman, Columbia, Yakima, Klickitat, Cowlitz, Chehalis, and nine other counties? It is absurd upon its face, but it would be no worse if the present number of members were retained and only senators from the newly numbered odd districts were returned.

"If the language of the constitution is followed the odd-numbered districts would elect part of the representation they are entitled to, while the even-numbered districts, while retaining their present representation, would also be entitled to elect senators in the odd-numbered districts according to the new numbering.

"There is a much easier way out of the difficulty than the plan suggested by the Farris bill. The senators from the even-numbered districts will fight for it. The plan is to consider that the division of the state into twenty-four districts, made by article 22, was only temporary, and that the numbering of districts to govern the tenure of office of senators should be left to this legislature. This plan would do no injustice to the people. It would not matter whether there were thirty-five districts to conform with the present senatorial representation or only twenty-one, as the Farris bill proposes. The senators from the even-numbered districts would then retain their seats for three years. In the odd-numbered districts the election next fall would be for four years, and the only harm done would be to the feelings of half a dozen senators who have, on an erroneous construction of the constitution, been given certificates of office for three years.

"It has been suggested by Judge Turner that it would be patriotic for the seventeen senators from the even numbered districts to resign, that a new senate be elected in November, and that those from the even numbered districts be elected for two years, and those from the odd numbered districts for four years. However, there are two objections to this plan: First, it violates the constitution in that the senators from the even districts would not serve three years, and the succeeding election would not be in the odd districts, but all over the state. The second and chief objection is a political one. It is this: What is the necessity for sending sixteen republican senators home for re-election when another United States senator will have to be elected next year."

THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

Builders Preparing for the Change [illegible] ment of Wages by the Hour.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 28.—At the national builders' convention to-day the report of the special committee on the eight-hour question was submitted. It recommends, in view of the fact that the national and many state and municipal governments have enacted that not more than eight hours' labor per day may be legally required, and in view of this standard being established in many building trades, that the National Association of Builders recommends all its affiliated bodies to advise all contractors in their membership to so arrange their affairs that they may safely get in the near future the altered conditions which the general adoption of the eight-hour standard would entail, and also advises affiliated bodies to secure the adoption of the system of payment of wages by the hour, so that they may, through that, also be in a safer condition to meet a change in the number of hours, should conditions in their various localities make it advisable for them to do so. A warm discussion followed the reading of the report, but it was finally adopted. The matter will be taken up again to-morrow.

Resolutions on lien laws were laid on the table until next year. The matter of sub-contracting then went to the committee on resolutions after a short debate. The association authorized its committee on the Builders' Surety Company to proceed with its organization on the basis proposed by them.

TUBERCULOSIS IS THE TROUBLE

A Letter From the Domestic Animal Commission About the Matter.

W. B. DANIELS NOW UNDER ARREST

He Is Charged With Abduction—Pushing Work Vigorously on the Marquam Grand and the Big Hotel.

It was discovered some time since that a number of Mr. W. S. Ladd's herd of Jersey cattle, kept on his farm back of East Portland, were affected with tuberculosis, a disease which is similar to consumption. The attention of Dr. James Withycombe, state veterinary surgeon, being called to this matter, he examined the cattle and found that several of them were diseased and the remainder had, of course, been exposed to the disease.

He reported the matter to the domestic animal commission, consisting of Governor Pennoyer, Secretary of State George W. McBride and President of the State Agricultural Association D Looney. Some of the commissioners visited Mr. Ladd's farm and examined the cattle.

AN OFFICIAL LETTER.

The result of their investigations will be found embodied in the following communication:

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE, }
SALEM, Or., January 22, 1890. }

Dr. James Withycomb, State Veterinarian.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to inform you that at a meeting of the Oregon domestic animal commission, held at Salem, Monday, January 20, 1890, it was ordered that all the cattle belonging to W. S. Ladd, that are found by you to be affected with tuberculosis, be killed and their carcasses buried or burned forthwith. It was also ordered that all the cattle belonging to W. S. Ladd that have been exposed to said disease, be kept in strict quarantine on the premises where they are now kept and entirely isolated from all other cattle, and that they be killed within six months from the date of said order.

It was ordered that the owner of said animals be instructed to notify the state veterinarian of the time and place of the killing of any of said exposed animals, and that he be permitted to market flesh of said animals only upon the approval of said veterinarian.

It is further ordered that said owner be notified not to dispose of to other persons the milk or butter made from the milk of any of said diseased or exposed cattle. You are instructed by said commission to report to its secretary descriptive lists of such of said animals as are now known to be affected with tuberculosis, and of such as have been exposed to said disease.

The commission finds that all of said animals per disease are of no value, but will recommend the payment of $2.00 per head for the killing and disposal of the carcasses of said animals. The commission appraises the value of animals that have been exposed to said disease, ordered to be killed within six months, at an average of $10.00 per head, and will issue its certificate of appraisal accordingly. You will notify the said owner that such certificates cannot be paid until an appropriation therefor shall be made by the legislative assembly. If the carcasses of said animals shall be buried, they must be covered with at least four feet of earth. You are authorized to execute the above orders and to report your action thereunder.

Secretary of the Oregon Domestic Animal Commission.

THE WHOLE HERD KILLED.

In accordance with these instructions, Dr. Withycombe visited Mr. Ladd's farm on Monday and inspected the killing of thirty-four head of the cattle. But few of them showed any signs of the disease. Six calves killed showed no trace of disease, and one bull killed was free from it, while another had one small tubercle on his lung. As the disease is liable to develop in any of the herd, the killing of the whole herd, as ordered by the commission, is the only safe course to be followed to eradicate the disease. This herd is believed to be the only one in the state so affected, and prompt action may prevent any spread of the disease.

Mr. Ladd's loss will be considerable, as he has 93 head of Jerseys in his herd, old and young, which, if free from disease, would be worth $35,000. The first lot he imported came from Pennsylvania. There were twenty seven head and they cost $12,000. They were, Mr. Ladd thinks, perfectly healthy, and he says the disease was introduced into his herd by two cows which he bought from a man in California. He has been endeavoring to increase his herd up to 100 milch cows. As he only receives $2 for every diseased animal killed and $10 for every animal which when killed is found to be healthy, and is allowed to save only the hides, the money paid by the state is only about enough to pay for killing and burying the animals, and the herd is practically a total loss.

A ROUGH AND TUMBLE SET-TO.

Joe Fitzsimmons Pounced Upon by a Gang and Maltreated.

Deputy United States Marshal Joseph Fitzsimmons, who was roughly handled by a gang of toughs at Astoria Sunday morning, while taking some sailors to the ship Orpheus, arrived here yesterday. He says four fellows jumped upon him and tried to take the men away from him. He told them he was a deputy marshal, and tried to arrest one of them, but they expressed contempt for all marshals, and threw him down and beat him severely. His pistol dropped out of his pocket in the general fracas, and he was arrested for carrying concealed weapons and had to put up $50 bail. Fitzsimmons will go down to-day to stand trial. Deputies Roberts and Waite went down yesterday to arrest the assailants of Fitzsimmons, and if they are to be found will probably bring them to this city. Fitzsimmons is an officer appointed under the state law, and just as to whether he can be beaten by a gang of toughs while in the discharge of his duties with impunity remains to be seen.

SEDUCTION AND ABDUCTION.

W. B. Daniels Charged With Accomplishing the Ruin of a Fourteen-Year-Old Girl.

A case of seduction and abduction which created quite a sensation in police circles, came to light in this city at an early hour yesterday morning. From Officer Woods, who made the arrest of the persons involved in the trouble, the following statement of the case has been obtained.

About 3 o'clock Monday evening, a laundryman named W. B. Daniels, engaged a hack at Wilbur & Moulton's stable on Second street, and told the driver to take him to the corner of Jefferson and Twelfth streets. Here he got out, but soon returned, and after handing the driver $10, told him to drive to the corner of Eleventh and G streets, where he entered the house in which reside Miss Maud Miller, a prepossessing young girl scarcely 14 years of age, and her aunt. The object of Daniels's visit was to seek the girl. He told her that the officers were after him, and that he would have to marry her at once in order to save himself. The girl refused, but her protestations were in vain. He forcibly seized her and put her into the carriage, telling the driver to take them to Vancouver, where he proposed to get married. The girl's aunt also made every plea to prevail upon Daniels to leave, but without success. The driver told her that he was hired by Daniels and he proposed to obey his instructions.

Before the driver could whip up his horses, however, a 17 year old brother of the girl jumped on to the hack and insisted upon being driven to the city jail. The driver, becoming frightened himself, thereupon drove back to the stable for further instructions. As soon as the hack stopped in front of the stable young Miller jumped down and hurried to the city jail to notify the police. Daniels and the girl, who in the meantime had been prevailed upon to adhere to his programme, also got out and secreted themselves in the stable. The girl was taken to the upper story into the carriage repository, while Daniels found a place of safety among the horses in the basement.

Officer Woods said: "When young Miller and myself returned a short time after, we were told that the couple had gone. The hack driver, C. B. Higley, also pleaded ignorance but I doubted his word and took him to the city jail, where he was locked up. Daniels, after having been in hiding some time, began to grow uneasy lest the girl should take a notion to leave and notify the officers of his whereabouts. He accordingly paid the elevator men $10 to take him up stairs to the girl, and soon after both quietly left for parts unknown."

Officer Woods left the stable and made a tour of all the lodging houses in town. After visiting a number he found the couple in a lodging house on First street, where they were occupying the same apartment. Daniels was placed under arrest and the girl was taken along as a witness.

In the police court yesterday, Daniels was arraigned on a charge of enticing a girl under 16 years of age, away from her home for immoral purposes, and Higley, on a charge of aiding and abetting Daniels. On motion of the district attorney, however, both cases were continued until to-morrow afternoon. The court fixed the bail in each case at $500.

Daniels is said to have accomplished the ruin of the girl about a week ago by getting her intoxicated at an oyster supper. The police say that he is a worthless character, and that he was in a similar scrape about eighteen months ago.

Miss Miller is rather large for her age, but has always been a very modest and well-behaved girl. Her mother went to San Francisco on a visit a few months ago.

STATEMENT BY WILBUR & MOULTON.

Messrs. Wilbur & Moulton have made the following statement regarding the action of their driver:

"Our driver, Higley, was in the office reporting an order just filled by him, when one of the men told him he was wanted at his coupe. A man got in and said 'drive me to Twelfth and Jefferson,' when he got out, handed the driver $10, asked him his name and number, and said, 'wait.' He soon returned and instructed the driver to go to Eleventh and G, when a girl got in. After some foul language by the people interested, he was told by a boy to drive to the station. The man said 'Drive straight to Vancouver. We want to get married.' The driver feeling that all was not right, drove to the stable for instructions, and, after explaining the case to the foreman, he was ordered to have nothing more to do with it, which orders he obeyed to the letter, as will be shown at the trial."

THE MARQUAM—THE PORTLAND.

A Scene of Great Activity—Pushing Work With Vigor on the Interior of These Splendid Structures.

The Marquam Grand Opera house and The Portland are both being pushed to completion as rapidly as possible, and the interior of each of the buildings presents a scene of activity calculated to drive a lazy man wild.

The entrance passage to the opera house is being roofed, and will be covered with cloth and paper for the opening. Inside the scene is bewildering. The scaffoldings are not yet torn down, and while fresco painters are putting the finishing touches on the ceiling, painters and decorators are at work on the boxes; men are busy cleaning out rubbish, others are putting the rich trimmings along railings and ledges and carefully covering them with burlaps to protect them. The rich and elegant carpets and hangings are all ready to be laid or hung. Mr H F. Gullixson, who has a large force of men employed on this work, as well as a double force in the big hotel, is about the busiest man in the city, and seems in a fair way of growing gray before he gets the two buildings completed. As soon as the scaffolding in the theater is down, he will bring some of his forces in from the hotel, and have the carpets in the opera laid, and the hangings put up in a jiffy "behind the scenes." Mr. Moses, the scene painter, and his forces are at work. A large amount of scenery is already completed and hung, and the huge and costly fire-proof curtain of asbestos cloth is suspended ready for the brush. Mr. Moses says it will be impossible for him to have the drop curtain completed by opening night, as it is to be a fine job and cannot be hurried or slighted. With the building in its present condition but little idea can be formed of the general effect when completed, but enough can be seen to convince any one that it will be very fine and quite up to the expectations formed by the public.

The Portland is not so near completion as the opera house, but the same bustle and activity is visible everywhere throughout the building except in the upper stories which are past the hurrying up stage. The rooms on the sixth and fifth floors are all carpeted and very handsome they look with beautiful carpets of many patterns and the handsome gas and electric light fittings. There are sixty-four rooms on the sixth floor and fifty-three on the fifth floor, and in many of them the furniture of antique oak or cherry is already placed, and men are putting up the window shades, and this part of the huge building will soon present a homelike appearance.

On the fourth floor seven carpet-layers and cutters are at work, and, to keep them going, nine girls are kept busy sewing. The sewing is done with small but complicated machines, which run along the edges of the carpet stretched in a frame. These machines only weigh a few pounds, but they cost $150 each, and with their aid about 500 yards of carpet is sewn per day. The carpets throughout the hotel from the sixth floor down are all of the same quality of elegant Bigelow and Hartford body Brussels, with the exception of halls, parlors, reception rooms, bridal chambers, etc. The hall in the central section of the fourth floor is piled with huge tiers of these carpets in rolls, there being some forty different patterns. In one of the large rooms are stacked the beautiful Moquettes for the parlors and bridal chambers, the latter having a white ground and beautiful pattern of flowers. Here also are the Royal Wiltons for the reception room, and a special pattern of Royal Wiltons for the lower hall, while for all the upper halls there is a Bigelow body Brussels of the same pattern. The work of laying carpets on the fourth floor is being pushed rapidly. Skilled workmen are employed and the floors are padded with what one of them said was "the best five-row taped lining." This floor will be completed by Saturday.

The halls and some of the rooms on this floor are piled with furniture, and eight carloads more are due in a day or two. The work of finishing the parlors is progressing rapidly. The dining-room is in the hands of the fresco painters. The oak paneling of the ladies' ordinary is about completed and the room will be one of the handsomest in the building.

The huge range is in place in the kitchen. It is about forty feet long, with two large broilers over the center. There will be no flies around that kitchen when it is completed, and Manager Leland intends it to be one of the show rooms of the huge hostelry. There is still a great deal of work to be done on The Portland, and as so much delay has been caused by the cold weather it is not likely that it will be opened before the middle of March, and perhaps later.

SUCCESSFUL TEACHERS' MEETINGS.

Encouraging Attendance of Parents—Proceedings of Two Sessions—Announcement.

A young man recently from Canada, who has had several years of active experience in the public schools in that province, said a few days ago, after he had attended one of the local teachers' meetings, that he was very favorably impressed with the manner in which these meetings are conducted. Especially was he impressed with the interest manifested by the school patrons. He said that teachers' meetings were as frequently held in Canada, but were seldom attended by the parents of the pupils. It has been the aim of Superintendent Wetzell to secure the attendance of the parents at these meetings, and he has succeeded. The superintendent says that the parents should be as familiar with the fundamental principles of the theory and practice of teaching as the teachers, that the parents should be, if not perfectly, fairly familiar with the best plans and methods employed in the public schools to-day. Possessing this information, the parents can very soon determine whether the teacher is progressive or not; whether he is striving to better prepare himself for his work.

In a few districts very ordinary teachers are allowed to conduct the schools. This would not be so if the parents would take a little more interest in the education of their children and investigate the principles of genuine teaching.

Two meetings have been held this month. The first was held in the schoolhouse in district No 14. The school officers of this district are wide-awake, enthusiastic schoolmen. In the face of much opposition they have succeeded in building a splendid schoolhouse. It is of modern design, and unlike anything in the county, outside of the city, in the way of lighting and ventilating. The windows are grouped, thus admitting the light in a broad sheet, instead of parallel lines. This arrangement of the windows is valuable for two reasons: First, and most important, less strain on the pupils' eyes, second, better and more convenient blackboard space. The ventilation is perfect, the atmosphere in the room being always pure, and without raising and lowering windows, which is the cause of so many severe colds.

The school officers of this district are Mr. E Rogers, clerk, and Messrs. Lewis, Davey and Abalson, directors. Mr D M C Gault is the teacher. He has taught in this district for the past two years.

The meeting in this district was not well attended owing to the inclemency of the weather. But a more enthusiastic meeting was never held in the county. The subject discussed was school architecture in all of its departments.

The second meeting for this month, and the seventeenth of the series, was held in the school house in No 8, about eleven miles east of the city. The school officers of this district are also thorough, enterprising school men, who believe in providing the best school facilities for their children that can be afforded. The school building is one of the best in the county and one of the best equipped. The directors state that in providing the excellent school accommodations the district now possesses they had to contend against that same non progressive element found in all neighborhoods. But they finally succeeded, and the excellent house, with its moderate conveniences, stands as a monument to the enterprise, energy and intelligence of the progressive few. The names of the school officers of this district are: D. M. Roberts, clerk, and Messrs. Conley, Coon and Kenney, directors. Mr. Harry McDiarmid is the teacher. This is his second year as teacher in this district.

The meeting in this district, notwithstanding the disagreeable day, was well attended by both teachers and parents. Methods in writing and spelling were discussed. Each teacher present participated in the discussions, and many of the patrons gave the teachers encouraging words. The meeting was very enjoyable. At noon the ladies of the district spread a splendid lunch, which was highly enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be held in district No 42. This is a joint district with Washington county, and the superintendent of that county and many of his teachers are expected to be present.

REVIVAL AT ST. PAUL'S.

The first meeting of the second week opened under many favorable indications. Notwithstanding the steady fall of rain, the house was full at the moment of beginning. Mr. Weber, after one evening's rest, was fresh and eager for the fray. Revs Kellerman, Hansen and the pastor, Rev. C E Cline, were on the platform. Miss Annie Cline, the pastor's daughter, presided at the organ. Mr Weber said: "I know a man in Cincinnati who is a millionaire, but he sleeps in one part of the mansion and his wife in another, like a cat and dog. O, how the people run, one after this phantom, and the other after that. The absence of one thing often makes void the presence of all things else. How many are here who think if they only had this or that they would be happy! What a delusion! I know one woman in Ohio who won't be a Christian because her neighbor's chickens scratch up her yard. Well, says one, I would be a Christian if I could dance. Let me say for one, I have transferred my brains from my heels to my head.

"Well, says another, 'I would be a Christian if I could belong to the church and go to the theater.' Let me tell you, again, one of the greatest actors of the present century would never allow his own daughter to darken the theater's door. Why? Let me see, how shall we be happy? 'Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.' This is the way, and the only way. Once a precious jewel was being sent to a lapidary in London by a trusted servant. That servant, standing on the margin of the vessel at sea, tossed up the jewel for curiosity and missed it. The jewel was gone to the bottom of the sea. Will you toss the precious jewel of your soul away like that? God help you."

The call was made and many crowded to the altar. Meeting to-day at 2:30 P. M. and at 7:30 P. M.

PROSPEROUS PORT TOWNSEND.

One of the Coming Great Cities of Puget Sound—Cause of This Prosperity.

Attention is called this morning to the advertisement of Port Townsend, the "Key City" of Puget Sound, which has been inserted in THE OREGONIAN through the enterprise and public spirit of a live people living in a live place. The advertisement itself is a tale plainly told which sets forth the advantages of this city in the strongest possible manner and the authenticity of these statements is vouched for by the most reliable authority.

It now seems to be generally conceded that Port Townsend must ultimately become one of the largest and most important cities of Puget Sound, and at the present writing the prospects for an early realization of this splendid dream are certainly most flattering. During the past year Port Townsend has gained more in population and wealth than in any previous five years of her history. It can be said in this connection that in all the numerous large transfers of real estate in this city during 1889 there was an entire absence of that blatancy and "spread eagle" tendency on the part of the leading spirits of Port Townsend, so often noticeable on the part of land boomers to create excitement over the place which they have made it their special mission to unload on an all too confiding public. Port Townsend is a well established city, to day enjoying a large trade with Sound ports both on the American and Canadian side, and the growth of the city up to the present time has not been in any sense a forced one. It is a growth that has given every evidence of stability and that has resulted altogether from the development of the natural resources of the richest of new countries, and from the unexceptional facilities that this city enjoys for handling the commerce that regularly frequents Puget Sound from the great shipping centers of the new and the old world.

MAPS FOR THE CITY SCHOOLS.

Chairman D P. Thompson, of the school board, has been trying to get some nice maps for the city schools, and has received the following letter:

UNITED STATES SENATE, }
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 16, 1890. }

Hon D P. Thompson, Chairman Board School Directors, Portland, Oregon. My Dear Sir: Responding again to yours of December 26 I find by a little begging, borrowing, etc., I am enabled to comply with your request for maps for use in the public schools of Portland, and I to-day forward to you by registered mail seven copies of the latest large maps issued by the commissioner of the general land office—one copy for the high school, and one each for the six grammar schools of Portland. Yours very truly,

JOHN H MITCHELL.

The maps have been received, and are ten or twelve feet square, handsomely printed in colors. There is one for each building, the Failing, Harrison, Park, Couch, North, High school, and the Ainsworth upon the Heights. City Superintendent Sabin is having them mounted, and considers them a valuable addition to the possessions of the schools. The maps are of the United States as a whole.

PRESBYTERIAN ALLIANCE.—The annual meeting of this body will be held at Calvary church, corner of Ninth and Clay streets, this evening. This alliance comprises the eight Presbyterian churches of Portland and vicinity, and their several missions. Rev. Ross C. Houghton, D. D., pastor of Grace M. E. church, will be the guest of the alliance, and will deliver an address. The president, Rev. D O Ghormley, will deliver his annual address, and directors will be elected. These services will begin at 7:30 o'clock and will be followed by a reunion sociable in the church parlors. Refreshments will be served. All Presbyterians in and about the city are cordially invited to be present.

An Awful Sore Limb

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one-third in size. Condition hopeless. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies in two months.

Cured by Cuticura

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the result was as follows. After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to-day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

Port Townsend, Washington,

ELEVEN REASONS

Reasons Why Port Townsend Is Destined to be a City of Great Importance.

REASON 1.—It has the best harbor of any on the whole system of waters of Puget Sound, from Cape Flattery to Olympia, having the most convenient anchorage over the greatest area, from 5 to 15 fathoms deep, with the best holding ground. There are no bars, shoals, rocks or hidden dangers of any kind throughout the entire bay, which is land locked and well sheltered from the stormy winds and from the heavy ocean swell.

REASON 2.—Ease of approach from the ocean. A sailing vessel can run direct from the ocean to the anchorage in Port Townsend Bay, with a westerly wind, or beat up to her anchorage with an easterly wind, the Straits of Fuca being over 12 miles wide, while above Port Townsend to any of the cities the navigation is more intricate, requiring the constant use of tugs. Steamers can run the distance from the ocean to Port Townsend during the densest fogs by aid of their compass alone, the course and distance after passing Cape Flattery is laid down with such precision, and there being no hidden danger to apprehend.

REASON 3.—It is the port of entry of Puget Sound, and its geographical position is such that it will afford greater facilities to commerce over a greater extent of country than any one position on Puget Sound.

REASON 4.—It is at the entrance to Admiralty Inlet and within the lines of the proposed military works for the defense of Puget Sound, and is where the naval squadron will have a rendezvous, and where the government will build a dry dock for repairs, and a naval station for supplies for our naval vessels and the merchant marine.

REASON 5.—It will become the great wheat shipping point on the Pacific Coast. It has been ascertained that from the junction of the Snake and Columbia rivers to Port Townsend there is a fall of about 400 feet, and that it is practically very nearly a level grade and that one engine can haul 25 loaded cars to Port Townsend, while it takes two decapod engines to haul 14 loaded cars through the tunnel to Tacoma. The peninsula which lies between Port Townsend and Port Discovery harbors, presents on both those harbors a greater extent of water front than any other position on Puget Sound, both of which can be utilized by one line of rail road, thus offering greater facilities for handling vast quantities of wheat than can be found elsewhere in the whole country.

REASON 6.—It will be the headquarters and great point of transit of all the whaling fleet, which can here ship all their oil and bone to Eastern markets and save 700 miles of ocean travel, which they now have to take to transport these products to San Francisco.

REASON 7.—It will be the headquarters of the fishing business. The Union Pacific Railroad Co. stated to the senate committee on relations with Canada who were here in 1889, that they intend putting in refrigerator cars to take fresh fish through on the long haul at greatly reduced rates, and will here ship all the salmon pack, as well as other fish products destined for the interior and Eastern markets.

REASON 8.—It is the point of departure for all passengers and freight to British Columbia and Alaska, and its unrivaled scenery make it the admiration of all tourists who have ever visited Puget Sound. From the heights of the city is a perfect cyclorama of the country. To the west are the snow-capped mountains of the grand Olympic range. Looking south is seen the level region which lies between the Olympic range and Puget Sound, and in the distance the lofty snow-covered cone of Mount Ranier, first discovered by Vancouver from Port Townsend bluff and named by him in honor of his friend, Rear Admiral Rainier. Turning to the eastward is seen the lofty Cascade range, extending to the northeast and terminating in the grand volcanic snowy head of Mount Baker, which has as much right to be called Mount Townsend as Rainier has to be named Tacoma. Looking north and northwesterly are seen the islands of the San Juan archipelago, Orcas and Lopez, with their marvelous yield of luscious fruit, and San Juan, of historic fame, celebrated for its fine farms and silken fleeced sheep, its beef and venison and fish, and further to the left Vancouver island looms up grandly, with Victoria and Esquimalt, the headquarters and naval station of the British squadron of the North Pacific, and between these grand islands and distant mountains, and directly under the spectator's eye, rolls the expanse of ocean known as Fuca Strait, down which—but for the curvature of the earth preventing—the broad Pacific could be seen a hundred miles distant. No single point on Puget Sound presents such diversified and charming scenery of gigantic proportions as the view from Port Townsend heights, which is a surprise and a delight to all beholders. The eye can sweep the entire circle of the horizon and snow-capped mountains, forest covered hills, every one a mountain in itself, glistening, sparkling waters, covered with busy steamers and lofty ships, betokening a lively and increasing commerce, the rich farming land of Whidby Island and the Chemakum valley tributary to Port Townsend all combined present a charming scene, which, once witnessed, is never forgotten.

REASON 9.—It is the location of the smelting works of Irondale, on Port Townsend Bay, where the best charcoal iron known in the world is produced, and from this iron were rolled and forged, and cast, the material which was used to build the United States cruiser, Charleston, at San Francisco. A plant will be put up at these works by the company to manufacture steel plates for boilers and for building vessels, steel rails and all iron material required for railroad construction and every kind of iron for blacksmith use.

REASON 10.—Port Townsend, by its geographical position is intimately and directly connected with Portland, being due north, as can be seen on any map. The Willamette meridian which commences in Portland as its initial point, terminates in Port Townsend Bay, between Point Hudson and Marrowstone Point. The Port Townsend Southern Railroad will soon connect the two cities, and Port Townsend will become, in fact, one of Portland's most important shipping points. The opening of the railway along Hood's canal and through the intervening region will develop and bring to the shipping at Port Townsend, the finest body of timber on the American continent as well as vast deposits of the best quality of bituminous coal and iron ores of unsurpassed richness all of which is known to exist in inexaustible quantities waiting but for the advent of the rail road to furnish a means of additional wealth to the business interests of Port Townsend.

REASON 11.—Because on the peninsula between Port Townsend and Port Discovery Bays will be built, within the very near future, the most important city on the Pacific Coast, a city that will be fostered and developed by the Union Pacific railroad, which will here have its grand Western terminus from whence will proceed lines of great ocean steamships, which will bring in the commerce of Asia and China, and the south seas. These eleven reasons, all of which are based on incontrovertible facts prove that Port Townsend is destined to become the great metropolis of the Northwest, and a most desirable place.

AILROAD, RIVER AND RAIN.

teady Downpour from Roseburg to Portland—The Willamette Rising.

minous Outlook for the Southern Pacific—High Temperature in Eastern Oregon—The Telegraph Wires—U. P. Open.

The Union Pacific is still open. A train arrived t 12:20 yesterday, and another at 2 P. M. Another rain will be in some time to-day. As will be een by the following dispatch from La Grande he snow is blowing a little but no delay of trains s anticipated. Advices from La Grande state:

The eastbound passenger train, due here at 11:20 . M., arrived at 7 P. M. to-day, having been detained by drifting snow. It took the train two ours to come down the mountain, a distance of wenty miles. It was deemed best to run thus lowly, and so avoid any accident. East of here he snow is still drifting badly. The Jull plow has been stuck in a drift part of the day, but is now out. The rotary is also east of here, clearing he track. All the trains will for a time be preceded by a snow plow between this place and North Powder. While the time made on this division is not up to the schedule, yet it is the best it is deemed advisable to make.

Pendleton advices state:

The west-bound overland train due here this morning has been stuck in the snow near North Powder all day. It is expected late this evening. The rotary snowplow has been taken off the branch and sent to La Grande. Its services are needed across the mountains, where sixteen inches of fresh snow has fallen. Fears are entertained that the prevailing winds have drifted the snow, blockading the trains on the mountains and in the Powder river section.

The Northern Pacific came in from Tacoma yesterday about 5 o'clock. The through train came in, as the day before, shortly after midnight. Passengers say that the delay of the day before was caused by a freight wreck east of Tacoma.

AN OMINOUS OUTLOOK.

The last train from Ashland is expected to arrive at 10:20 this morning. Men have been sent through the Cow creek canyon to keep the road open. Rain is falling copiously now at nearly all points along the road. The great damage now is from washouts, which are beginning to manifest their destructive qualities. Several bridges and trestles far south of Ashland are said to be gone, but the exact localities are not yet known. A number of small landslides have occurred, but as no trains are moving nothing but the roadbed can be damaged.

Everything about the Southern Pacific's prospects is simply uncertain. The tremendous downpour of rain, augmented by the melting snow, is liable to carry out a trestle, or precipitate a landslide at any time.

THE WEATHER BULLETINS.

Yesterday's weather reports are as follows:

Bonneville records a temperature of 37 degrees; Hood River, 36; Dalles, 38; Arlington, 35; Umatilla, 30; Wallula, 46; Walla Walla, 49; Dayton, 40; Pomeroy, 37; Riparia, 32; Colfax, 32; Spokane, 42; Pendleton, 28; LaGrande, 10; Union, 20; Baker City, 30; Huntington, 42; Heppner, 30; Durkee, 40; North Powder, 25.

Northern Pacific—Billings, temperature 20, clear, no storm; Livingstone, 20, clear, no storm; Bozeman, 20, clear, no storm; Helena, 16, clear, no storm; Missoula, 12, clear, no storm; Hope, 20, cloudy, light east wind.

Southern Pacific—Ashland, raining and snowing; Grant's Pass, raining all night and day; Leland, raining hard all night and day; Riddles, raining hard all night and day; Myrtle Creek, raining hard all night and day; Roseburg, raining hard all night and day; Junction, cold, wind south, rained all night; Albany, cloudy, rained all night.

THE TELEGRAPH WIRES.

The Western Union linemen have wires O. K. twelve miles south of Riddles and will reach West Fork to-night. It is expected that a party from the south will also reach West Fork and establish communication to San Francisco. Stormed and rained hard all day through the canyon. The snow is melting rapidly.

Business for San Francisco and California points via the Pacific Postal Telegraph Company is being handled promptly, and trains over the Southern Pacific railroad are being dispatched from that office.

THE UNITED STATES SIGNAL OFFICE.

The signal service reports are brief, owing to the telegraph wires being down. From what reports are at hand it is shown that the rain is general, warm, southerly winds are generally experienced over the state. The rainfall at Portland has been unusually heavy, 1.79 inches having fallen in the twenty-four hours ending 5 P. M. The conditions are such that the rain is general, though not so heavy in all parts of the state. The temperature has ranged for the past three days from 23 to 46 degrees, and this, together with the strong southerly winds of from ten to thirty-two miles an hour has caused the snow to rapidly melt. The river at Portland has not risen in the past twenty-four hours, but it will most likely rise slowly in the following forty-eight hours. The vast quantities of melting snow, together with the copious rains, will cause a freshet. The hight, time of occurrence and possible danger will depend on the weather conditions for the next forty-eight hours; if conditions similar to those prevailing to-day continue, there will most likely be quite a rise. The freshets in the twelve past Januarys have caused the Willamette river to rise twenty-six feet above low water mark, and similar conditions are liable to occur this year, for the valley has had an unusual amount of snow.

Continued warm southerly winds and rain are expected for the next 24 hours at least.

STATE OF THE RIVER.

Word was received from the Oregon City locks yesterday afternoon that the water was five and one-half feet above low water mark. No fear is felt by those interested of the steamers being unable to get through, as the river would have to raise an additional five and one-half feet to fill the locks.

At 5:30 last evening the Union Pacific port captain received the following reports from up the valley. Oregon City—Has been raining all day very hard, and the river is rising fast. Salem—It is the worst storm of the season. It is raining, the wind has been blowing hard all day, and the river is rising. Jefferson—Has been raining hard all day, but the river is not rising to amount to anything. Harrisburg—It has been raining hard since 9 A. M. The river has risen but little. Albany—Has been raining hard all day, and the river is rising slowly.

STATE OF THE RIVER.

The Western Union reports were:

Oregon City—Been raining all day very hard; river coming up very fast.

Salem—Worst storm of season; blowing hard and raining; river rising.

Harrisburg—It is raining hard; been raining since 9 A. M.; river had raised but little.

Jefferson—River not rising at present; raining hard; look for rise to-morrow afternoon; river about three feet above common stage.

Eugene—River rising slowly; chinook melting snow in mountains rapidly.

Harrisburg (later)—Seven feet above low water and rising; been raining hard all day and still at it.

Albany—River nine feet; just beginning to rise again; rained steadily and hard last twenty-four hours.

Salem (later)—River eight feet above; been falling, but to-day was on standstill; will be rising by to-morrow.

A late wire from Eugene says:

A very heavy rain has been falling all day and evening, a chinook melting the snows in the mountains all around the head of the valley. Indications point to very high water.

Arlington reports:

The river at this point is rising slowly. There has been no chinook in this section, the snow being melted slowly by rains.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Frederick Warde as Virginius—"Conn the Shaughraun" at Cordray's—Marquam Grand Opera House Opening.

Virginius is the play of the people. Sheridan Knowles infused into his powerful creation all that tends to inspire patriotism, arouse manhood, and wring out human sympathy. It will have immortal life upon the stage, as long as there remain to mankind actors of the robust school. Edwin Forrest interpreted the character of the heroic Roman in such fashion that those who have come after him have been but imitators; none yet have, like him, so thoroughly and completely mastered both phases that distinctly characterized the role of Virginius. Only two men since Forrest's day have faced criticism and courted public favor as Virginius, and each have succeeded after a fashion. These have been McCullough and Warde.

Virginius, the rough soldier, the strong, heroic Roman, quick to anger, rash in the fierce barbaric brawl, magnificent of chest and limb, Virginius with the death clutch of the tiger upon the destroyer of his domestic happiness, in other words, the magnificent physical Virginius that appealed to that spark of barbarism still left in the breast even of modern man, was right royally interpreted by John McCullough who ended his days in a mad house. As such he won the people, McCullough was of the people, with all the faults and all the virtues of the populace. He acted with force rather than subtlety, with strength as opposed to mentality. In one less gifted of face and form, his force would have degenerated into ranting, his strength would have slipped into over-acting. Nature gave him great physical gifts but he did not improve them, and the Virginius of McCullough was only possible to one of his limited understanding, by reason of years of association with Forrest.

Virginius, the father, nay, more the patriot, that looks far out beyond the dim vista of personal feeling into the future of Rome, the man who loved liberty and whose heart was broken, and whose mind was stolen by reason of patrician encroachment upon popular liberty, the almost divine being who loved virtue and honor so well that he could sacrifice his only child upon its altar, that spiritual element, that intellectual phase of the character of Virginius finds its truer interpretation in Warde's portrayal of Virginius. McCullough had little or no conception of the character. Warde has the highest and truest conception of Virginius, and if he does not always reach even his own conception, his failure may be traced to lack of those physical gifts which nature had so unsparingly lavished upon poor John McCullough. Mr. Warde is undoubtedly to-day at the apex of his fame, and he has truly merited the distinction awarded him by the people. But as Virginius, Mr. Warde lacks the robust form, the thrilling voice, the great chest—in short, the physical requirements are conspicuous by their absence. To compensate for this, however, he has a face made up of rugged yet expressive features, and one capable of rightly expressive varied and quickly changing emotions. One scene in this tragedy alone demonstrates the accuracy of this critical dissection. In act 3, Lucius, Mr. Wilford Clarke, breathless, foaming with exertion consequent upon agonizing speed, rushes in with the news of how Virginia has been dragged before the praetor through the streets of Rome. Before the father, though full with the dread intelligence, he is awe-struck, the significance of the tidings he brings cleaves his tongue to the roof of his mouth. When he manages to gasp forth his tale, Mr. Warde in three minutes, that seem to the audience an age, shows by facial expression alone surprise, doubt, fear, agony, terror, misery, hate and an awful purpose before whose sternness no power holds its own, a man whose intent none could stay. Again Mr. Warde, in the prison scene of madness and despair, shows vast superiority to anything done by McCullough. His portrayal of Virginius leaves its effect upon both the intellect and heart.

Before alluding to the cast in detail it must be said that while the company with which Mr. Warde has surrounded himself is a good average one, yet it lacks that harmony of effect, that exquisite care for the minor details, that characterizes the thorough work of modern managers, Henry Irving, Lawrence Barrett, Wilson Barrett, William Florence, Augustin Daly and Edwin Booth for the past few seasons have educated us up to looking for these excellencies. No actor looking to the permanent betterment of the drama can excuse himself upon the plea that it will not pay; facts prove the contrary.

Of the performance of the company, it must be said that they do not show as well in this play as in the lighter one of "The Mountebank," for the reason that in the latter the bulk of the work falls upon the star.

The Icilius of Mr. C. W. Sutton is too mechanical. He declaims too much, and his action is destitute of that spontaneity and naturalness which make of the character one to be admired. He does not seize the opportunities afforded in the earlier scenes with Virginia, nor does he rise to the point in the strong scene before Appius.

The Virginia of Miss Stella Rees is also disappointing. It is a difficult part to play, in many respects. There is an air of charming innocence which belongs to the part, without which any delineation loses its attractiveness. This Miss Rees failed to give to it. She was too conscious all through the play, and failed to impress her audience with a true appreciation of the character.

Mr. Clay Clement makes a good Appius Claudius, in so far as physical appearance goes, and generally speaks his lines with intelligence, though with a little too much stageyness. Mr. L. F. Rand gave to the part of Dentatus all the rugged strength which belongs to it, and the remainder of the cast was fair.

To-night "Damon and Pythias."

CORDRAY'S MUSEE-THEATER.

"Conn, the Shaughraun," was presented last night for the second time at this house, and there was a decided improvement in the performance over that of the first night. The scenes worked more smoothly, and the people seemed more familiar with their lines.

The manner in which the play is staged is highly commendable, and speaks well for the reputation of the house.

"Conn, the Shaughraun," again to-night.

MARQUAM GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

At 6 o'clock yesterday morning there was a long line of expectant purchasers persistently holding their places in line outside the doors of Kohler & Chase's piano emporium. Although Portland is a progressive city, it is an unusual thing to see a line of staid and sober citizens waiting for a business house to open as early as 6 o'clock in the morning. The determined assemblage was occasioned by the announcement that the sale of seats for the Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company would begin at 9 o'clock, when the rule of "first come first served" would be strictly observed.

At 7 o'clock promptly the store was opened, and the knot of people that was by this time swelled to a good-sized crowd filed into the establishment and began exchanging their premium orders and dollars for the bits of pasteboard that entitled them to the privilege of hearing one of America's finest songstresses, supported by her own company and accompanied by her own orchestra, on Monday evening next at the Marquam Grand Opera house.

In spite of the rapid and effective work done by Mr. S. H. Friedlander, assisted by Mr. Samuel Meyers, the line increased instead of diminished until the store was packed with eager purchasers. This state of affairs continued without intermission until 6 o'clock in the evening, when the obliging opera-house officials were compelled to desist from their labors and close for the day.

Manager J. C. Davis, clad in rubber hat, coat and boots, accompanied by Mr. William Fennessy, the general agent of the company, would appear upon the scene occasionally, and stand for a few minutes with a pleasing expression upon their countenances at the rapidity with which the tickets were going off.

The total amount taken at the auction on Monday and at the regular sale yesterday will reach the sum of $7620, which insures a financially successful season, and the amount which will probably be realized on the entire week will doubtless reach such figures as would do credit to cities like Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Cincinnati and Chicago.

There are, however, a number of good seats still left. The sale, of course, was the strongest for the opening night, but the demand for all the other nights is remarkably great.

There is no question about the house being ready, as the chairs and fixtures have arrived, the scaffolding is being taken down, the carpets are being laid, and the interior of the theater will be as presentable as though it had been opened for six months. The lobby and entrance will also be in good condition and made especially attractive.

The second day's sale at the regular prices will commence at 9 o'clock this morning.

FROM THE EAST SUBURBS.

An Important Meeting Held by the Board of School Directors.

Camp Sheridan No. 5 Sons of Veterans Organized—Street Repairs—New Cottages—Revival Services—Land Slides—Etc.

The school board held a meeting last night with Directors Paquet, Hill and Hislop in attendance. In accordance with the orders of the board, T. J. Jones submitted three sets of plans for school buildings, as follows: Plans for a ten-room building for Stephens addition, and also plans for a twelve-room building for this addition, and plans for four rooms to be added to the North Central building. These plans were discussed, and final action looking to the advertisement for bids will be taken next Monday night. These are the plans that will go before the annual March meeting.

The board passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Joseph Buchtel for the three dozen hand fire extinguishers presented by him to the schools.

As it has been stated that there are children in the district who cannot attend school because they have no books, and no money to buy them with, the board will furnish all such with the necessary books and supplies. Application may be made to the school clerk. The board meets Monday night.

NEW CHURCH WILL COME.

Rev. J. W. Bushong, pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, who is conducting the revival meetings in progress in that church, evidently has made up his mind that the Centenary needs a new church edifice, and he will certainly get it before the year is out. Over a hundred were turned away Sunday night, and the church has been filled every evening. The membership will doubtless be increased more than 150 as a result of the present meetings. Dr. Bushong's methods of conducting the meetings have been very successful. He has a ringing, penetrating voice, which reaches every corner and nook of the audience room. His sermons are a rapid massing of facts, scriptures and pungent illustrations, delivered with electric energy and force, and sometimes his sentences are poured forth like a torrent.

LAND-SLIDE.

A land-slide occurred last evening at the railroad embankment on Hawthorne avenue across Asylum slough on the south side, which caused one of the springs of the water company to become a little discolored. Water had accumulated in the depression at the northeast corner of Twelfth and Hawthorne avenue, to a depth of twelve feet, and breaking over the railroad, discolored the spring, and also endangered the embankment. A force of men were at work repairing the damage last night. It will be necessary to drain the water from the depression named. Provision should have been made to drain off the water before the filling was made, but now it will be no easy job.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Phil Sheridan camp No. 5, Sons of Veterans, was organized last Friday night in Ross' hall by F. R. Neale, mustering officer. There were twenty charter members present. The officers were elected and installed for the ensuing year, and are as follows: Captain, S. H. Griffith; first lieutenant, Burt Smith; second lieutenant, Mr. Fowler; first sergeant, Frank Melville; quartermaster sergeant, Nate Coghtry. The camp starts out under favorable circumstances. S. H. Griffith has been appointed mustering officer for the state. The charter of the new camp is from Montana, but the organization of this camp makes Oregon a division.

DRAINAGE NEEDED.

There is a vast accumulation of water on Twenty-first street on each side of its intersection with the Powell's valley road. The sidewalks are afloat and the gutters are inadequate to carry off the water. The only remedy apparent is to enlarge the gutters.

NEW COTTAGES.

Between ten and twelve cottages are partially completed near Brooklyn bridge on the Milwaukie road, which will be finished when the weather permits. There will be lots of building in that part of the city this year.

STREET REPAIRS.

Without any doubt the common council will have to replank Fourth street from I to L streets this year. Breaks in the elevated roadway have been frequent, and the planking on the solid ground is about worn out.

NEW BOARD OF MANAGERS.

The first meeting of the new board of managers of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the parlors this Wednesday evening, 29th, for election of officers for ensuing year and other important business.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

School taxes will be delinquent on the 10th of February.

The sloughs are being pretty thoroughly washed out.

Mr. George Buffington, who has been sick for the past ten days is recovering.

The mud on Fourth street, accumulated during the recent snow storms, is being removed.

Harry Stutsman, the popular engineer, has taken a position on the Mount Tabor motor line.

The five Indian boys who escaped from the Indian school at Chemawa were overtaken near Oregon City and returned Monday evening.

It takes an expert dodger to escape running against wagons and barrels of coal on the sidewalk on I street while endeavoring to reach the ferry on a dark night.

The Washington street car, from across the river, that was used on the line south from U street for several weeks, has been taken off and a nicely painted car put on in its place.

Miss Mary Paquet, of this city, has just received a letter from a lady friend at Salinas, Monterey county, Cal., and the letter contained a picture of the famous Indian, "Old Gabriel," who is supposed to be 150 years old, and the oldest living human in the world. Besides being famous for his great age, "Old Gabriel" was never known to take a bath, and unlike most Indians was never known to drink intoxicating liquors of any kind. The picture shows him to be pretty well preserved. Miss Paquet has received quite a curiosity.

DR. A. L. COLE

This well known and reliable specialist treats nervous, chronic and private diseases, including lost manhood; also blood and skin diseases which result in swellings and sores. He treats successfully the effects of self abuse, which, left unchecked, causes loss of memory, vitality, softening of the spine and brain, heart disease, consumption, morbid despondency, bordering on insanity. He removes deformities of all kinds. He cures all diseases of women, restoring sexual desire. Dr. Cole is master of all diseases. He is the greatest physician on the American continent. As a surgeon he has no equal. His French method of treating private diseases far excels all others. Rooms private. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Terms reasonable. Patients treated at home. Correspondence solicited. Send 10 cents for pamphlet.

GRAND CLEARANCE SALE

SPECIAL CARD

We are in the midst of our Grand Annual Clearance Sale and as always the case at such times, we are pulling out of our fixtures lots of goods that have been overlooked or have not had as much attention as they deserve. We are determined not to carry them any longer and consequently we have made a horizontal reduction and intend to give our customers the benefit.

Among other lots we will offer fifty pieces of All-Wool Tricots at 39c yard; these are good value for 62½c, and include most of the leading shades. Also 60 pieces of Silk Mixed Knickerbocker goods for 31c yard, which would be very cheap at 50c.

Hosiery is always interesting to the ladies and more so when it can be had less than regular prices. We will sell the following lines at figures that will effect a prompt clearance: 100 dozen Ladies' Black All-Wool Cashmere Seamless Hose at 19c pair. These are easily worth 25c. Also 75 dozen Children's Ribbed Cashmere Hose at pair, which are good value for 35c; and, lastly, we will offer 50 dozen Ladies' Full Regular-Made Black Cotton Hose, which we guarantee perfectly fast dye, at 22c pair. These are a wonderfully cheap lot and will be picked up very quickly.

Our buyer of the Linen Department says that we do not advertise his goods as much as they deserve, and on looking over his stock we find some excellent bargains in Towels. They are all pure linen and of the best makes. There are 50 dozen with assorted styles in borders, which we have told him to close at 25c; value 35c easily. There are 50 dozen more, with fine knotted fringe, at 25c, fully worth 35c. Also 75 dozen extra large size handsome bordered patterns, 20c. We will also put in this offering 60 dozen Glass Cloths at 8c; value 11c.

We would say one word to our patrons, and that is to call on us, as far as possible, in the mornings before the great rush commences, as they can select their goods more comfortably and receive much better attention than when we are overcrowded.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY

For sufferers from special and chronic diseases, who are unable to visit New York or Europe.

YOU CAN BE CURED

By calling on Dr. de Freye (Deutscher Arzt, Medicin Français), late profess. surg. S. F., Cal., member of N. York Medical Society, member of the Society of Physicians of France, etc., etc. This well-known specialist, who by merit of his experience in the leading hospitals of the world (Paris, Berlin, Vienna, New York—regular graduate, four diplomas), has succeeded in curing many cases pronounced incurable by others. Delicate diseases, nervous debility, premature weakness, all chronic diseases of both sexes, loss or lack of manhood, however induced, permanently cured. Those who have placed themselves under the injudicious treatment of pretenders or soi-disant physicians, from whose treatment they have received no benefit, or who by injurious medicines have aggravated their disease, are cordially invited to consult him; consults free in all modern languages; also by letter. Office, corner of First and Pine sts., rooms 6 and 7 (over Portland National Bank), entrance on Pine st. Office hours from 10 to 4 o'clock daily, and from 7 to 9 o'clock evenings. Correspondence, P. O. lock box 329.
